R.A.F., Canadians Smash Rhineland City

Bombs Spread Havoc in Cologne

By WALTER CRONKITE

LONDON, July 9.—The air ministry announced tonight that big British and Canadian bombers dropped more than 1,000 tons of explosives on Cologne last night in the 119th raid on the Rhineland industrial capital.

Swarming back into action against Germany after a four-night layoff enforced by bad weather, the bombers labored through murky clouds and electrical storms to deliver a blow at Cologne which spread havoc through a vital industrial district only lightly hit in previous raids on the much-bombed city.

The announced bomb weight of more than 1,000 tons indicated that hundreds of the R.A.F.'s four-motored bombers were engaged in the bombardment, which cost only eight planes.

DEFENCES IMPEDED

The clouds, through which the raiders flew, impeded the German defences, and nearly all the crews had quiet journeys to and from the target, evidently accounting for the low ratio of losses.

Over Cologne, however, anti-aircraft fire was intense, and German night fighters stabbed repeatedly at the bombers when they were silhouetted against the glow of flames beneath or of the searchlights.

The bombardment was concentrated on a district of Cologne packed with many factories which reconnaissance photographs showed had suffered relatively lightly in the devastating assaults on the city, which was the first in history

Hundreds of Nazi "Tigers" Ablaze

Reds Get Upper Hand in Tank Battle

LONDON, July 9. — (BUP) — The German DNB agency claimed tonight that the Germans had captured a district centre in the Belgorod area of the southwest front in Russia.

MOSCOW, July 9.—Southern front dispatches reported today that hundreds of 60-ton German "Tiger" tanks were ablaze in the Belgorod sector, reflecting the growing belief that the Red army was gaining the upper hand in the biggest armored battle of all time.

"We have tamed the terrible tiger" was the war cry ringing through the field reports which said Russian tanks had stormed into the titanic battle to reinforce Soviet artillery, armor-busters, and grenade-throwers against the Nazis' steel monsters.

The great armored battle swirled through penetrated Soviet defences in the Belgorod region at the southern end of the thundering battle line, where the Red Army was throwing in every ounce of available strength to stem the Nazi onrush.

EXPECT CLIMAX SOON

(The British radio said Moscow correspondents expected a climax in the battle within 48 hours. A Stockholm report of the National Broadcasting Company said the Germans admitted that "rivers of blood" had been drawn from both sides.)

As the Soviets threw their armored forces into a concerted effort to close the Belgorod breaches in their positions and stop the long delayed German summer offensive, Red Army counter-attacks steadily improved the situation to the north in the Kursk-Belgorod region.

The fifth day of the offensive brought a growing conviction in Soviet quarters that the Russians

French Chiefs Agreed on Aims States Giraud

By H. O. THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud said today that he and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, co-presidents of the French Committee of National Liberation, have "established as our sole aim the defeat of the Axis forces, the liberation of France, the return to a political structure in conformity with the natural aspirations of our country."

Giraud made the statement at a press conference.

He stressed the necessity for French unity and promised French co-operation in the Pacific war and in the shaping of a lasting peace after the Axis has been crushed.

GIVES PLEDGE

"I can give you the following pledge," Giraud told the 100-odd correspondents at the U.S. war department:

"France will be at your side to liberate the Pacific from Japanese domination, even as she will remain with you to build a peace that will be lasting and just, but also realistic."

Giraud said he was making arrangements to obtain American equipment for a French army of 300,000 men which he said would help in the liberation of Europe. French soldiers are in need of modern weapons. Once equipped, he said, "they will go forth to fight with absolute confidence and irresistible drive."

MORALE ALRIGHT

Giraud's quick temper was not evident during the conference except once. When a reporter asked about reports of a lowered French morale in North Africa, he flared up.

"The morale of the French army of tomorrow will be the same as the morale of the French army of yesterday," he replied testily. "When 15,000 men are lost out of 70,000 as in our Tunisian campaign, one can be sure that that army will be ready to carry on the fight."

United States Air Officer Wins Promotion

—U.S. Army Air Force Photo.

Lt.-Col. T. R. Clinkscales, base commander, United States Army Air Forces in this city, whose promotion to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel from that of Major, was announced Friday. At 29 years old, he is one of the youngest officers in the U.S.A.A.F. to hold the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and has had service as lengthy and more widespread than some officers many years his senior in years. His home is at Greenville, South Carolina. He was graduated from the Air Corps Flying School in 1939, and then spent two years with heavy bombardment squadrons at Langley and Westover Fields. For 17 months he was on foreign service, flying cargo, personnel and combat planes to all theatres of war, including Egypt and Africa. One of his most notable trips was from Scotland to Washington, D.C., a flight accomplished in one day, and with him as passengers were Maj.-Gen. James A. Doolittle who led the air raid on Tokyo, and Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British minister to Canada. Prior to taking over command of the U.S. A.A.F. base here on Feb. 1 last, Lt.-Col. Clinkscales had more than 200,000 air miles to his credit.

Police Hope to Solve Oakes' Death Mystery

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 9.—(CP)—Police reported today that they are hopeful of clearing the mystery surrounding the death of Sir Harry Oakes, multi-millionaire gold mine owner whose body was found in bed yesterday morning.

Formal evidence was unfolded today at a coroner's inquest held in private, and the hearing then was adjourned until next Tuesday.

Investigating officers, who are being aided by two police experts imported from Miami, would not discuss the death of the 68-year-old baronet other than to say that they are "hopeful of a solution."

No other details were allowed to pass today beyond the bar of censorship. Earlier, however, it had been revealed that there were injuries on the body of Sir Harry.

All work was suspended on the many Oakes enterprises here until the body is sent away, either late today or tomorrow. It will be forwarded to Bar Harbor, Me., where Lady Oakes received word of her husband's sudden death.

Britain Proposes Empire Talks on Post-War Aviation

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(CP)—Discussions among British Commonwealth countries on the broad subject of post-war aviation are being proposed by the British government, it was reported here yesterday.

The meeting, likely to be held in London, would precede any aviation conference among the United Nations. For some time it has been reported here that plans were underway to hold informal discussions soon—probably in Ottawa—among representatives of Canada, Britain, the United States and perhaps Russia and China. However, any plans to this effect may have to be modified if the London conference is held.

Prime Minister King Says:

United Nations' Organization Is Needed Even Before Victory Won

By JAMES McCOOK

OTTAWA, July 9—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the House of Commons that the time is approaching when the concept of the United Nations will have to be embodied in some form of international organization, even before victory is won.

In a review of the world situation and Canada's part in international affairs, the Prime Minister said authority could not be equally divided among all the 30 or more sovereign states in the United Nations.

A number of new international institutions are likely to have to be set up as a result of the war, he said, and in the view of the Canadian government effective representation on these bodies should be determined "on a functional basis" which would admit countries which had the greatest contribution to make to the particular object in question.

POINTS STRESSED

In his statement, made as the annual debate on external affairs department estimates for 1943-44 opened, Mr. King said:

1—The new German offensive on the Russian front, along with intensified Allied bombings of strategic targets over Europe, "marks a place of new beginning in the war in Europe."

2—The aerial and Commando assaults against Italy and Sicily, Sardinia and Crete, are parts of a single strategy "which the immediate future may be expected rapidly to unfold."

3—The war in 1943 must be thought of as a vital part of the

R.A.F. Flare Bombs Prove Big Headache for Nazis

STOCKHOLM, July 9.—(AP)—R.A.F. heavy bomber pilots are having so much success in locating targets by the light of "flare bombs" that German authorities have ordered air raid precaution forces to concentrate on extinguished flares, the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen said today.

First the Germans thought the flares were incendiaries. Now they have found that there are 60 flares in each of these "bombs" which are dropped during night raids.

The "bombs" explode 400 to 800 yards above the ground, scattering the flares, each of which illuminates an area of more than 100 yards in diameter with such brilliance that the glow can be seen by pilots through thick clouds, the Germans said.

Breadner Reveals:

Canadian Bomber Squadrons Have Reached North Africa

OTTAWA, July 9.—(CP)—Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of air staff, announced today that "a number of Canadian Wellington bomber squadrons" have arrived in North Africa and have had "many exciting experiences" already.

Canadian airmen have been serving for many months in North Africa but, except for one fighter squadron, they have been attached to R.A.F. squadrons. The squadrons to which the air marshal referred are R.C.A.F. squadrons, commanded by Canadians.

Air Marshal Breadner made his announcement in addressing a wings parade at nearby Uplands Air Station, home of No. 2 Service Flying Training School.

The exact number of squadrons which have joined R.A.F. and United States units in North Africa was not given.

It was indicated in other quarters, however, that all parts of Canada are represented in the new force.

The air marshal's statement that the Canadian squadrons have had "many exciting experiences" in the short time they have been in North Africa was taken as an indication that the squadrons have been taking part in the recent heavy attacks in the Mediterranean area.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Roosevelt indicated today that this government will not recognize any French government as long as 95 per cent of the people of France remain under German domination.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked at a press conference whether the United States would recognize the French Committee of National Liberation. Gen. Henri Giraud, now visiting in Washington, and Gen. Charles de Gaulle are its co-chairmen.

Crew of Three

United States Cargo Airplane Lost in North

A United States army cargo plane with a crew of three has been missing since June 16 when it was last reported near the Alaskan border, it was learned Friday from officials of the United States Air Transport Command headquarters.

The pilot was Gilbert E. Enger, 32 years old of Duluth, Minn., whose wife and month-old daughter reside at 9613 106 street. The co-pilot was Raymond Vanderbush, 28, of South Minneapolis, Minn., and the radio operator was John E. Redus, 25, of Little Rock, Arkansas.

Mrs. Lavinia Vanderbush, wife of the co-pilot, and Mrs. John Redus, mother of the radio operator, have been notified that the plane is missing.

Few details are available since the plane, returning from a routine cargo flight from Alaska, was not heard from after it reported to a field on the Canadian side of the border.

INTENSIVE SEARCH

An intensive search was instituted when the plane was reported overdue, but without success. The search is still continuing, officials stated.

Mr. Enger, a rated transport pilot with more than 3,500 hours in the air, formerly operated a civilian flying school for the United States Army primary training in Duluth, and is well-known in aviation circles in Minneapolis.

The three men were employees of one of the civilian sub-contractors for the air transport command on the Alaska route.

Expect Showdown Battle for Munda

By BRYDON C. TAVES
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, July 9.—A showdown battle for Munda, main Japanese base in the central Solomons, was believed imminent, if not under way, today as U.S. jungle troops closed in for the kill after routing a Japanese patrol in a skirmish only two miles from the base.

(A Japanese communique broadcast by the Tokyo radio said Allied forces moving into Roviana island, south of Munda, were attacked by Japanese planes that shot down 31 Allied planes supporting the operations. Another Japanese broadcast acknowledged that the Americans have won a foothold on New Georgia, but asserted that their casualties totalled "well over 11,000 men.")

Field reports indicated that the Japanese have all but abandoned their other positions on New Georgia island for a last stand at Munda, site of an airfield 150 miles southeast of the enemy naval anchorage at Buin-Faisi in the northern Solomons.

The Munda garrison may have received some reinforcements from among troops believed to have been landed at Vila, on Kilombangara island northwest of New Georgia's Monday night by the Japanese cruisers and destroyers sunk or damaged a few hours later by American naval forces in the battle of Kula Gulf, a delayed front dispatch said.

Pushing four miles through the jungle along the south coast of New Georgia from their new beachhead at Zanana, American soldiers and marines engaged and dispersed a Japanese patrol yesday at Elelo, only two miles east of Munda, a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the south and southwest Pacific offensives, reported.

Authorities warned, however, against assuming that the early success of the New Georgia operations necessarily presaged quick conquest of Munda itself, since the main defences of the air base have not been engaged.

to feel the impact of a 1,000-plane attack.

The air ministry said a number of German planes were shot down by British gunners aboard the bombers.

Attacking in fewer numbers than on previous assaults on Cologne, the bombers apparently concentrated on a limited target area and had only light losses. In the three previous R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. night bomber raids on Germany in the last 12 days, Cologne was the main objective.

A German communique, broadcast by Berlin, said the Cologne cathedral, which dates to the Middle Ages, was hit again. A similar claim was made after the last raid July 3.

LOSE EIGHT PLANES

The German communique referred to the "devastation" caused in Cologne by the R.A.F. attack, and said that "casualties were caused." It added that nine British Bombers were shot down.

Only eight bombers were lost despite the weight of the assault, the 11th of the war on the third largest city in the Reich.

Hardly had the four-engined Stirlings, Halifaxes and Lancasters returned to their bases, when R.A.F. fighters in strength swept across the channel for a breakfast-time attack on northern France, apparently inland from Boulogne.

The air ministry gave no details of the attack on Cologne, but its description of the raid as "heavy" indicated that hundreds of tons of bombs, many of them four-ton super block-busters, were dropped on Cologne's sprawling war factories and network of railways.

Cologne is one of the most-bombed cities in Germanw and was the target of the R.A.F.'s first 1,000-plane raid last year.

war of liberation of oppressed countries of Europe.

4—Methods for consultation between the United Nations, including Canada, have been efficiently developed, and are being improved.

5. The bonds which had linked the United Nations into a working model of co-operation must be strengthened and developed for even greater use in years of peace.

6. The Canadian government would be glad to play its full part in giving aid to refugees.

7. The development of diplomatic representation for Canada spoke of the developing importance of Canada in the world community.

OUTLINES BOARDS

The prime minister outlined the work of combined boards forwarding the war effort of the United Kingdom and United States, and said Canada's position was kept in mind.

Informal and exploratory discussions about international aspects of the post-war settlement were constantly taking place and Canadian experts and officials had participated in such discussions.

On matters as complex as methods for stabilizing currencies, it was obvious there must be many preliminary talks before plans can be framed for consideration of governments.

In discussing future organization of the United Nations, Mr. King said that on one hand, authority in international affairs must not be concentrated exclusively in the larger powers.

NEED COMPROMISE

"Some compromise must be found between the theoretical equality of states and the practical necessity of limiting representation on international bodies in a workable manner," he said. "That compromise can be discovered, especially in economic matters, by the adoption of the functional principle of representation.

"That principle, in turn, is likely to find many new expressions in the gigantic task of liberation, restoration and reconstruction."

"The war in 1943 must be thought of as a vital part of the war of liberation of the oppressed countries of Europe, of which the liberation of the French empire in Africa was both an essential and a memorable prelude," Mr. King said.

The Japanese had made "determined efforts" to build and fortify bases for submarines, seaplanes and other aircraft at the Aleutian islands of Attu and Kiska.

DRIVEN FROM ATTU

During May, Japanese forces had been driven out of Attu which now was under American control.

"Kiska remains a potential centre of attack upon our shores, and upon other parts of this continent," he said.

Mr. King described the new German offensive along about 200 miles of the Russian central front, along with the intensified bombings of strategic targets over Europe, as "a place of new beginning in the war in Europe."

Organization of free China and the maintenance of industries, education and social services had been one of the "most resourceful answers to aggression in the history of the world."

Mr. King said "mounting successes" have marked the offensive warfare of the United Nations during recent months.

Opening a review of recent world development as external affairs department estimates came before the House, the Prime Minister as secretary of state for external affairs said that in the summer of 1942 battle forces were so evenly matched that in any particular theatre even a slight alteration of forces or a slighth accession of concentrated strength might have tilted the balance towards victory or defeat.

As late as mid-October, 1942, he had found it necessary to say there was no sign that the tide of battle had definitely turned.

FIRST TURNING

Good use has been made of the months from June to October in supplying reinforcements and equipment to the few areas in which a later offensive against the Axis might be launched.

That offensive marked the first turning of the tide in the great battle around the world.

The main offensive phase began in the Southwest Pacific with American landings on the Solomons in August, 1942; was continued in the offensive launched by the British 8th Army westward from El Alamein late in October; and received its greatest impetus from the Allied landings in Morocco and Algeria late last November.

The successful North African campaign "marked the triumphal close of an all-important chapter in the war."

Campaigns which had been "holding actions" on a vast scale had been turned against the aggressors with increasing force elsewhere. In Russia what had looked like a "last-ditch defensive stand" was turned into an offensive of such proportions that the entire German 6th army was annihilated at Stalingrad.

HEAVIEST LOSSES

Losses of men and materials on this front had been heavier than in any other theatre of operations.

For some weeks the Russian front had been relatively quiet but "a new German offensive now has been launched along nearly 300 miles of central front."

"It along with the recent intensified bombings of strategic targets over Europe, marks a place of new beginning in the war in Europe," Mr. King said.

In the Pacific Japan's hold remained widespread. There had been some local gains by China, but the Chinese effort was limited by supplies available and even more by the length and difficulties of supply routes.

In the southwest Pacific the power of Japan had been held at bay and losses inflicted on her shipping greater than her present capacity to replace it.

The United States had recently driven the Japanese out of some of their strongholds in the Solomon Islands.

"By a determined initiative, they have denied to Japan other bases and harbors which might be used to attack Australia or to prey upon the sea routes from the United States to Australia and the Indian Ocean," he said.

From all the development of the past eight months, from what was known of decisions taken at Casablanca where Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt conferred, and from the combined planning which took place from day to day, the picture of the war in 1943 emerged more clearly, he added.

POLICY ATTACKED

After Mr. King finished his statement, Howard Green (Prog. Con. Vancouver South) said it was unfortunate the discussion on foreign policy had been left so late in the session.

He said the prime minister had boasted last July 1 that Canada has become a world power. It could become a world power, he said, but not under the foreign policy of the present government.

One essential feature of foreign policy, if Canada were to become a world power, was a declaration that Canada proposed to remain within the British family of nations.

Under the present policy, Canada could hope for nothing more than a "small-nation" status in which the Dominion would be overlooked as it had been in the setting up of some of the international committees and boards since the war began, Mr. Green said.

COULD BE "KEYSTONE"

But as a permanent member of the family of British nations Canada was increasingly important and could become the "keystone" of the British Empire.

Canada should be "an active member of the Pan-American union," said Mr. Green, but only with the understanding that by such membership she was not weakening the ties with the British Commonwealth.

Another feature of the policy should be friendly relations with China and Russia which modern air travel had made "neighbors" of the Dominion.

"We are at a turning point in the history of Canada. Either we go on to become a real world power or we revert to a small-nation status."

COLDWELL PROTESTS

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, like Mr. Green, protested that the opportunity for discussing external policies had been left too late in the session, now 107 days old. He said it indicated the desirability of a committee to deal with foreign affairs.

U.S. Subs Destroy Ten Axis Vessels

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The Navy department announced yesterday that American submarines had sunk 10 enemy noncombatant ships and damaged four others in the Pacific.

A communique listed the ships sunk as a large transport, a medium-sized transport, two medium-sized cargo vessels, one large tanker, a medium-sized tanker, a large cargo vessel, a medium-sized passenger-cargo vessel, a small cargo vessel and a small schooner.

Four medium-sized cargo vessels were damaged.

These actions have not been announced in any previous navy communiques.

American submarines have now sunk or damaged a total of 283 enemy ships in the Pacific area, according to navy communiques. The total includes 200 sunk, 29 probably sunk and 54 damaged.

Sicily Shudders Under 6th Day Non-Stop Raids

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 9. — Sicily rocked under its sixth day of non-stop aerial bombardment yesterday as ceaseless waves of Allied bombers pounded its airdromes and communications in a pre-invasion offensive against the outer defences of southern Europe.

From Northwest Africa and Middle-Eastern bases, every type plane in the Allies' southern arsenal heaped new destruction on the five chief Sicilian airdromes and their satellite landing grounds and on the east coast port of Catania.

Heavy and medium bombers from the northwest African air forces wrecked parked planes, hangars, runways, supply dumps and other installations at the Gerbini, Comiso, Biscari, Cathania and Sciacca network of airfields yesterday and the previous night.

JOIN OFFENSIVE

Four-engined American Liberators from the Middle-Eastern command joined in the offensive with daylight raids on Satania Wednesday and yesterday, while R.A.F. heavy bombers took up the slack with a raid on the same port Wednesday night.

Two waves of Liberators dropped 250,000 pounds of explosives on Catania yesterday. Eight intercepting enemy planes were shot down, four others probably were destroyed and one was damaged. Two Liberators were lost and the American crewmen were machine-gunned by enemy fighters while parachuting.

Charge U.S. Editor As Japanese Agent

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—A federal grand jury yesterday indicted Frederick Heizer Wright, and identified him in the indictment as a daily news copy editor, on charges that for 10 years he had acted as a paid agent of the Japanese government and had not notified the state department of his employment.

U.S. Attorney Howard F. Corcoran said "there was no evidence that Wright's superiors in the newspaper had any knowledge of the activity complained of in the indictment."

The indictment charged that Wright had acted as a paid agent of the Japanese Imperial government for 10 years up until the attack on the United States.

The indictment also contained a conspiracy count which alleged that Wright and the Japanese government were agreed that Wright would cause articles concerned with Japanese subjects to be published in the daily and Sunday news but that Wright's employment as a Japanese agent would be kept secret from the Daily and Sunday News.

Wright was alleged to have been a Japanese agent from January 1931 to Dec. 6, 1941.

3 D.F.C. Holders Given Wings at Unique Ceremony

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 9. — (CP)—A wings parade unique in graduation ceremonies at air training schools in Canada was held at No. 5 Service Flying Training School, R.C.A.F., here yesterday with the pinning of pilot's wings on three holders of the Distinguished Flying Cross.

The recipients, all flight lieutenants with a combined total of 119 operations overseas to their credit, were John Gellner, native of Prague, Czechoslovakia, whose home now is in Toronto; W. L. Jennings, Hamilton, Ont., and R. W. Alexander of Norwich, Ont.

The three D.F.C. holders all saw service as observers overseas and were among the first R.C.A.F. flying personnel to arrive in England in this war.

Sask. to Increase Mothers' Allowance

KENOSEE, Sask., July 9.—(CP)—The Saskatchewan government will provide a further increase in mothers' allowance of $2.50 a month, bringing the basic allowance for a woman with one child to $12.50, said Premier W. J. Patterson at the annual Cannington constituency picnic here.

The increase in the allowance will cost the provincial government approximately $75,000 a year and will be effective as from July 1 last, Mr. Patterson said.

Mothers' allowance for second and third child is $5 each a month and for each child thereafter $4 a month.

This is the third increase in the mothers' allowance made by the Saskatchewan government since 1934.

Prairies Swelter From Heat Wave

WINNIPEG, July 9—(CP)—Prairie citizens sweltered yesterday as a heat wave spread across the west, bringing in its wake a toll of deaths and sending thousands of persons to bathing beaches and summer resorts.

Since early in the week, high temperatures have been reported in prairie districts, reaching into the 90s in some areas.

Many drownings have been reported.

Crop losses are feared in some districts as a blistering sun swept the wheatlands, and adverse reports sent grain prices to new five-year high marks on the Winnipeg grain exchange yesterday.

Reports from the west stressed the urgent need for rain. The prolonged dry spell in southeastern Alberta has seriously affected crop prospects, while moisture conditions over a considerable area of Saskatchewan deteriorated rapidly. Severe heat also was rapidly depleting the moisture-store in Manitoba.

Reds Believed Quelling Nazis In Tank Battle

had mastered a technique for handling the 60-tonners spearheading the German armored onslaught.

STUD BATTLEFIELD

"The Tigers are burning" was the caption over dispatches in the Soviet organ Izvestia and the army organ Red Star telling of dozens of miles of battlefront studed with flaming German tanks.

The Russian "Tiger-hunters" have averaged a daily bag of roughly 500 German tanks so far in the battle, and "the Tiger is not as black as Hitler paitned him," the dispatches said.

Despite the mounting confidence here, the struggle was reported developing at an unslackened pace, and some Soviet quarters predicted even more massive and intense fighting.

The titanic tank battle followed four days in which Soviet artillery, anti-tank guns and infantrymen armed with gasoline-filled pop bottles had knocked out nearly two-thirds of the Germans' 3,000 available tanks in bearing the brunt of the heaviest armored assault of all time aimed at either end of a 165-mile sector of the southern front.

FALL BACK IN SOUTH

Though Soviet forces at the northern end of the sector held firm and even gained ground in counter-attacks, those around Belgorod, to the south, gradually fell back under the overwhelming weight of the attack.

When 60-ton Tiger tanks punched two new holes in the Soviet outer defences yesterday, the Red army ordered its own armored forces into battle and at last reports the opposing tank forces were battling it out on the Russian plains.

(The German high command said a tremendous tank battle had developed behind breached Soviet positions with the Russians making the "greatest efforts" to stem ever-advancing wedges. Russian losses were given as 420 tanks, many guns, and 117 planes.)

(A Rome broadcast said the Germans already had achieved their immediate objective of shortening their line on the southern front and forestalling a possible Russian offensive. The broadcast discounted reports that the fighting was a prelude to a general offensive.)

(British military experts said the Soviet position in the Belgorod area appeared "precarious". A German broadcast said Axis forces pierced the Russian line at so many poinst that the defences had been overcome in great depth and length.)

Dollar-Year Men Defended By Minister of Finance In Debate on Price Board

OTTAWA, July 9.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley said yesterday in the House of Commons that many men who have joined the government service in wartime have made great sacrifices, and he denied the suggestion of Clarence Gillis (C.C.F., Cape Breton South) that "dollar-a-year" men still gave their chief loyalty to private concerns.

The minister said Mr. Gillis only "thought" such charges were correct and could not prove them.

Mr. Gillis replied it was only human nature that such men should consider they would be returning to their employment in private industry after the war and that they should seek to protect the interests of private companies.

DEBATE CONTINUED

The debate took place in continued discussion of the financ department war appropriation with anticipated expenditures of the prices board in the present fiscal year under review.

At the morning sitting—the first of the present session—the House dealt with agriculture department non-war estimates and completed this study during the early afternoon.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said it was his opinion that wheat in the bin on a western farm represents the "best bank account in Canada." He said the return to the farmer from the 1942 crop could not be estimated until this grain had been sold.

Rev. E. G. Hansell, (N.D. Macleod) asked why Canadian farmers were forced to accept less for their products than that received by American farmers, while paying more for farm machinery and other essentials of farm production.

Mr. Ilsley said it was true that farm prices in Canada were lower than those in the United States but cost of living was higher there than in Canada.

P. E. Wright (C.C.F. Melfort) asked how the minister could justify taking the import tax off fruits and vegetables while leaving the tax on imported farm machinery undisturbed.

Mr. Ilsley said the price of farm machinery, with few slight exceptions had kept within the price ceiling but the prices of imported vegetables and fruits had gone so high that something had to be done to reduce them to Canadian consumers.

Peace River Span Open Next Month

VANCOUVER, July 9.—(CP)—H. C. Anderson, assistant chief engineer, provincial department of public works, said yesterday that an 1,800-foot steel, high-level bridge with a 24-foot roadway will be opened for traffic across the Peace River, between Dawson Creek and Fort St. John, next month. It will replace two temporary bridges that were carried away by high water, a ferry and winter crossings by ice.

Speaking at a meeting of a service club, Mr. Anderson said the bridge was one of the many gigantic undertakings in connection with construction of the 1,600-mile Alaska highway by United States engineers. The undertaking, he added, would prove a great asset to British Columbia in development of the Peace River area after the war.

U.S. Cotton Crop May Be Smallest In Last 48 Years

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—The United States agriculture department reported yesterday that this year's harvested acreage of cotton may be the smallest since 1895.

In its first report of the season on cotton, the department estimated the acreage in cultivation on July 1 at 21,995,000 acres, or 5.6 per cent less than last year and 25 per cent less than the 1932-41 average.

Assuming abandonment of cotton land equivalent to the 10-year average, the harvested acreage would be 21,576,000 acres, or the smallest in 48 years.

Nazi Ammunition, Tank Production Is Said Increased

LONDON, July 9.—(CP)—A German production report, widely at variance with Allied declarations that heavy bombings have cut down Reich factory operations, asserted today that both tank and ammunition output have increased.

Production of heavy tanks, said a Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, increased 200 per cent in the six months ended with May while ammunition turned out during that month more than equalled the output for a six-month period in 1941.

Drew Reveals Tory Platform For Election

TORONTO, July 9.—(CP)—Lt.-Col. George A. Drew last night announced a 22-point program for the Progressive Conservative Party in Ontario "based upon the conviction that under a strong government the vast resources and producing capacity of this province can assure employment to all who will work and security for those who find themselves unable to work."

In an address prepared for delivery over a network of Ontario radio stations, the Progressive Conservative leader said that the Ontario election Aug. 4 is the most important since Canada became a nation because the government which will be elected will be responsible for meeting "the tremendous problems which will arise immediately after the war."

FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT

It was Col. Drew's first announcement of the Progressive Conservative platform for the provincial election.

The program called for maintenance of British institutions; co-operation with the federal government in prosecution of the war; efforts to increase employment in the farms, factories, mines, forests and personal services; organization of farmers to increase production; study of collective bargaining legislation.

Plans for a housing program after the war; revision of real estate taxation with the province, as an initial step, assuming half the cost of school taxes now charged to real estate; revision of the educational system; plans for post-war public works; removal of the hydro-electric power commission "from political control" and downward revision of power rates; tax reduction; establishment of a civil service system; increases in mothers' allowances and old age pensions.

Two points in the program dealt directly with men and women in the armed forces. One assured them priority in public service and protection in their employment. The other promised legal protection against the economic consequences of their service—against seizure of property for taxes, forfeiture of instalment contracts, cancellation of life insurance policies up to $10,000 and judgments or other legal proceedings for debts incurred before entering military service.

In preparation for the post-war period, the program provided for immediate establishment of a rehabilitation and social security committee to draft plans "which will assure social security for all our people, and also provide for the rehabilitation and employment of the members of our armed forces and munitions workers after the war."

Demand Sedition Laws Be Invoked Against J. Lewis

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The National Maritime Union (C.I.O.) at its fourth constitutional convention adopted a resolution yesterday which called upon the attorney general to invoke the sedition laws against John L. Lewis, described in the resolution as "an enemy promoting a program designed to destroy the American way of life."

In another resolution adopted relating to Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, the union convention urged the miners to "weed out of their ranks those elements who, under the leadership of John L. Lewis, are aligned with the appeasers and home front busters, and place their enmity to the president and his war policies above the interest of the country and the miners' union and the welfare of its members."

Blackmore Sees No Dangers in Buying Power

OTTAWA, July 9.—(CP)—John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, speaking in continued discussion of finance department war appropriations in the House of Commons last night, discussed inflation fears and said wider distribution of purchasing power would have no inflationary tendencies if proper price control was exercised.

Agriculture product prices could be increased by bonuses and subsidies to farmers without any increase in price to consumers so long as price controls continued. Inflation was nothing more than a rise in price which could be controlled. Nor was there any apparent reason why debt-free state money should not be used for payment of subsidies.

He asked the minister if it would make any difference in the price of milk to consumers if the milk subsidy was paid by debt-free money obtained from the Bank of Canada instead of money borrowed from the people or chartered banks.

AFFECT OTHER THINGS

Mr. Ilsley said it would not affect the price of milk but would affect the price of many other things.

Mr. Blackmore asked for details. "I think I'll just listen," Mr. Ilsley said.

Mr. Blackmore argued that there was no reason why more subsidies should not be paid to encourage production and salaries and wage increases.

The "stress and strain" of people working without hope of higher return on their labor either in prices or wages was something that promised no good for Canada, said Mr. Blackmore.

Answering questions by a member on the petroleum products subsidy for which the estimate this year is $24,000,000, Mr. Ilsley said the subsidy was paid as an alternative to permitting the price of gasoline to go up, due to increased shipping and insurance costs. At one time, he said, this went as high as 14 cents a gallon on gasoline made from oil brought in by tanker.

Roosevelt Wins Subsidy Battle

Congress cleared its calendar and recessed until Sept. 14.

Ending 10 days of bitter fighting, reversed decisions and legislative confusion, both houses united yesterday in sending to the White House legislation that conspicuously contained no prohibition against the use of public money as subsidies.

'Black Box' Sight Secret Of Flying Forts' Success

By GLADWIN HILL

A U.S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, July 9.—(AP)—The secrets of the superiority of the Flying Fortress over Nazi fighter planes and the remarkable "Black Box" sighting device which helps United States gunners take a big toll of the enemy were made public yesterday for the first time.

The device—a Sperry automatic computing sight — automatically compensates for variables in aiming, like bullet drop and deflection (backward sweep of bullet from speeding plane) and the distance of the target.

The gunner, instead of sighting along his barrel, looks into a peephole in his sighting machine, which resembles an over-size news camera.

IMAGE BRACKETED

Bracketing the image of his target—the enemy plane—in the viewfinder are two vertical white lines—"light gates."

The gunner can make necessary adjustments with thumpscrews in a second or two. The machine, which is set in advance for the width of German planes and the average deflection, and automatically compensates for the swing of the turret, both horizontally and vertically, instantly "adds" in adjustments and reflects the answer by the moving of the two white "gate" lines closer together or farther apart.

When the lines touch the wing tips of the enemy plane in the image the guner knows that if he presses his trigger he will hit the plane.

Waterhouse, a bomber station commander still acting as group captain, has led attacks on Emden, Duisberg, Lorient, Cologne, Wilhelmshaven and St. Nazaire.

Meanwhile, it was announced the King decorated three Canadians in a recent investiture ceremony. The Canadians decorated included Chief Petty Officer Mac Bernays of Halifax and Vancouver, and PO. A. J. Morris of Winnipeg, Man., with the Air Force Medal and Sgt. G. K. Reardon of St. George, N.B., with the British Empire Medal.

Riding on Foot

Three passengers travelled on Edmonton's street cars and buses in the first half of this year for each two who boarded the carriers in the corresponding months last year. And the cold weather and deep snow in the winter months do not explain the 51 per cent increase, for the June increase was more than 55 per cent.

Compared with the first six months of the last pre-war year, the traffic almost doubled in 1943, the gain being 97 per cent.

Like the weather, street car congestion is something about which not much can be done. More cars cannot be bought, for none are being built. Buses are almost off the market as well. A further staggering of office and store hours would create confusion in business and domestic circles.

The appeal to shoppers to travel during the off hours has not as much point now as it had a few weeks ago, for increasing congestion has become an effective argument with those who can choose their times. Any shopper now who delays the homeward journey until a rush hour must be a glutton for punishment. She gets her dues by having to stand and gasp.

On the Way Out

Coincident with the arrival of General Giraud in the United States it was given out that the French committee for national liberation at Algiers has moved to eliminate Admiral Robert from administrative responsibility in Martinique.

The committee has appointed a new commander of the French forces in the island and also named an administrator who will take over the duties of governor of Martinique, Guadaloupe and French Guiana. The regime of the Admiral as Laval's sole surviving executive in France's colonial empire is thus marked for an early end.

The terms proposed by Robert for a voluntary change of sides included a clause that Allied troops would not be sent to the island. As he made the offer while crowds of islanders were singing the Marseillaise and clamoring for alignment with the Fighting French, this face-saving concession was not likely to be granted in any case. As the committee at Algiers has moved to oust the author, his proposals will go with him.

Martinique may be of little actual use to the Allies. But somewhere in the western Atlantic enemy submarines have almost certainly been getting supplies, and where more likely than from the island owning official allegiance to Vichy? That is a sufficient reason why Robert should go—and a watching detachment of Allied troops be sent there if that is thought to be worth while.

The Cost of Living

The members of the House of Commons have been discussing the cost of living—with about the result that might be expected. Opposition members were able to point out that the index compiled by the Bureau of Statistics does not agree with a widely held popular impression as to how much the cost has increased; and Mr. Ilsley replied that the index had been very carefully worked out and must be taken as presenting the facts so far as these can be ascertained and generalized.

Both views are right, and their disharmony is more seeming than real. That the officials of the Bureau are doing their best there is no reason to doubt, as there never has been under any Government or set of conditions. That there are sections and cases in which realities do not seem to fit the conclusion that the cost has advanced only 17.6 per cent since the start of the war is beyond doubt.

The index prepared by the Bureau shows the average cost of living throughout the Dominion. But Canada is a big country, and one of widely varying conditions. What is cheap in one place is relatively dear in another. And there are places, such as Edmonton, where unusual circumstances have tended to force prices generally upward. The nation-wide average cannot mean much in such circumstances.

Perhaps instead of one index there should be more, one for eastern Canada and the other for the western half, or one for each province. These undoubtedly would more clearly reflect the actual cost in their respective areas. They would also provide a statistical basis for comparing the cost of living in one section or province with another. That would be useful in more ways than one.

No Easy Mark

Everyone understands as a matter of simple reasoning that the Japanese are devoting their attention to exploiting the resources of the islands and mainland territories over which their forces spread a year ago. But there are complaints, some from official sources, that the public in Canada and in the United States do not take the fact seriously enough; that there is still a too common assumption that once Germany has been beaten it will be comparatively easy to dispose of Japan.

Perhaps this popular supposition arises from failure to note what sorts of resources have thus come under Japanese control. Rice, tropical fruits and valuable timber in almost endless quantities are obviously available to the invaders; as is rubber. These of course are pouring into Japanese ports as fast as the native populations can be made to produce them and Japanese freighters can carry them.

But these are the least valuable assets Japan has gained from the stand-point of war materials. Here is a list of minerals found extensively in the conquest islands and territories—most of them in several of the islands and mainland areas: Coal, copper, iron, lead, zinc, tin, antimony, oil, tungsten, manganese, anthracite coal, nickel.

Every one of these is a vital war mineral. There are few really vital war minerals not on the list; aluminum is one, but it was long ago claimed that Japan had found a supply of this in Manchuria.

Japanese technical experts, military bullies, propaganda agents, are cajoling and driving the natives to produce these minerals as they never did before, and the supplies are going into stock piles in Japanese munitions yards bigger than they ever were before; these things have to be taken as certain if the world knows anything of Japanese aims and methods. To suppose anything else would be to suppose the schemers at Tokyo to be fools, and there is no warrant for that.

The notion that Japan will be a "push over" once its European affiliates have been crushed, had better be dismissed as only an agreeable illusion.

"Several thousand" Chinese who are working in the lumbering and ship-building industries at the Coast are reported threatening to go on strike unless the Government allows them income tax exemption for children and other dependents in China. They are given exemption for their wives, but not for children. The question is a rather awkward one. China is a long way off, and the Government of Canada has no way of checking claims as to children living there. The Chinese have a reputation for honesty but so have Canadians—and a good many Canadians have been known to lie for the sake of getting clear of paying taxes.

Progress of Volunteer Bureau

Thousands of Women Are Placed in Voluntary War Work

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

About the middle of last January The Citizens' Volunteer Bureau opened their office at the Gas Company on 104th street. And now after six months of operation Edmonton wants to know of their accomplishments.

This Bureau operates under the auspices of the War Services Council of Northern Alberta.

They have approximately 1,000 women organized under the Block Plan, including District Leaders, Sector Leaders and Block Leaders.

The city of Edmonton, according to the A.R.P. map, which is used by the C.V.B., is divided into 20 districts, and then into sectors and blocks according to population. The boundaries are natural ones such as realways, ravines, river, etc. Each block has a Block Leader which contains not more than 20 families. All Districts are fully organized.

There have been 686 enrolments. That is 686 women have registered at the Bureau. This registration gives their names, address, telephone number, number and ages of children, nationality, health, work classifications, which includes training and work they are already doing, jobs desired when available, interests, hobbies, if they can drive a car, if they can entertain service people for meals or overnight, and education.

Placements

From the information on these registration cards, 3,719 placements for voluntary work have been made through the Bureau. The Bureau also supplied all the vounteers needed for issuing the No. 2 ration books in February. Then again in April, May and June, they supplied all the volunteer helpers for the issuing of the canning sugar coupons.

Other Bureau ventures were: 24 salvage drives, a fat drive through the schools which proved to be the largest collection ever made in Western Canada, 4 Red Cross Superfluity Shop drives, a drive for books for Servicemen's Libraries and a drive for books for the I.O.D.E. camp library for which 1,500 first class books were collected, drive for magazines for the Council of Jewish Women and a drive for woollens to be re-made by on Overseas Work Group who got enough to keep them busy for a year.

The Salvage Drives have been most successful. The Depot has been so terribly crowded several times that salvage pick-ups have had to be postponed. Each time the Bureau has been able to send large numbers of women and men to alleviate the congestion.

Victory Loan

The Block Plan was used in the Fourth Victory Loan Campaign. The Block Leaders turned in 298 cards from interested and prospective bond purchasers, from these $22,250 worth of bonds were sold by follow-up salesmen. The constructive criticism from this project was that the women were not allowed to distribute the cards until the third week of the campaign, and by that time many had purchased their bonds. If they had been allowed to canvass during the first week their total would have been trebled, if not more.

The chairman of the Community Chest is going to use the Block Plan in the forthcoming drive, particularly in the outlying sections of the city.

The Bureau has been assigned the 10th day of each month to sell War Savings Stamps at the recently opened Stamp Bar. All District, Sector and Block Leaders have been urged to have Block Teas as suggested by the local stamp committee or some other function to stimulate the sales of stamps in the present "Stamp Out The U-Boat Campaign."

Canteen Helpers

The demand for canteen helpers has been great. They have been supplied regularly to the Canadian Legion Hut, United War Service Hut at the Y.M.C.A. and the Salvation Army Hut. Many more such helpers are needed as the work is increasing and some of the original helpers have moved from the city.

Over 250 taggers have been supplied for four tag days.

When Mrs. Kate Aitken of the Consumers Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board was here in May, eight mannequins were supplied for the Re-Make Revue by one of the registered members, who is connected with the Little Theatre Group.

The Girl Guides together with women have been regular helpers in sorting magazines for the Jewish Women.

The Education Committee, which is composed of representatives from the teaching profession, the Registered Nurses Association, the Council of Nutrition, the Women's Regional Advisory Committee, also the Executive Director of the Council of Social Agencies, the chairman of the Planning Board, the Director of the Bureau and the Convenor, have been most active. They have interested a large number of women in the First Aid and Home Nursing Courses sponsored by the A.R.P.

They have also arranged courses in nutrition, public speaking and how to conduct meetings.

They are co-operating with the "Canning for Victory" campaign which will be held here during the week of July 19.

Courses in nutrition and public speaking are being arranged for the Fall.

Fifteen minutes of radio time once every two weeks has been secured by the Bureau from CFRN for the promotion of Bureau work.

Here's wishing them success in all their undertakings. And for a city the size of Edmonton there should be twenty times 686 registered for volunteer work. Everybody should register at the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau at 10124 104 street.

Terrific Cost of Modern War

All Men Must Concentrate On Peace When Victory Is Won

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—What appalls me about war is the unbelievable waste of life and effort and Nature's riches.

Raymond Clapper

If congressional advocates of economy who have been trying to cut a few million dollars out of expenditures want to do a real job of economizing, they have the biggest opportunity any men in public life ever had. Let them turn their efforts for economy into the largest field of all for saving money, material, human labor and life. Let them start the greatest economy campaign of all time in congress—an economy drive to prevent future war.

That is the challenge to this generation of public men—to see to it that the power and prestige of the United States is used to insure humanity against another such war as this one. No effort in public life will bear such rewards for all peoples, if successful, as an effort to adjust differences between nations by some more economical means than total war.

The cost of war, even in the restricted sense in which I have been seeing it, is appalling to me. I hear that congress had appropriated the incredible sum of 100 billion dollars for next year—which is far more than the total income of the whole American people in the best years before the war. We spent some 70 billion dollars on war in the last fiscal year.

But the dollar cost is only part of it. Think of the exhausted resources, irreplaceable natural wealth which all nations are pouring into the conflict, useful careers interrupted for millions of men, loss of health and life for thousands of them.

Travelling around Britain and here in North Africa, I have seen acres of ammunition dumps, sometimes driving for miles along roads lined with piles of big shells, bombs, land mines, stacks of metal boxes filled with machine gun ammunition. I have seen acres of trucks, jeeps and other vehicles, warehouses packed with all kinds of merchandise.

Nobody should think I am suggesting that we be niggardly in outfitting and equipping our men. That is not the point at all. The point is that to fight modern war the whole of civilization must consecrate itself to the task of mass slaughter and mass destruction. Nor am I suggesting this war was unnecessary. It obviously was inescapable after international anarchy was permitted to continue and aggressors were allowed to grow strong enough to resort to force without being confronted with an effective opposition.

Just as a minor operation in time may prevent a major one, so the use of minor force in time might have prevented this war. Regardless of what might have been we now have a new opportunity coming along. When we see millions of American men committed to throwing everything including their lives into war we are showing callous indifference not to begin now doing everything possible to prepare the war for the effective restraint of future aggression.

If it is possible to organize a vast war machine and wage successful war on the modern scale than it also must be possible to organize a machine for preventing war.

Those are thoughts that go through my mind time and again as I see convoy after convoy of army trucks, or see Jeeps bouncing down the dusty roads, or see ships in a harbor and planes covering an airfield or a street full of men marching in desert tan uniforms.

Liberal Leader Wanted

Editor, Bulletin: Are the Liberal Party officials in Alberta out to destroy the party in this province?

Since 1940, the party has failed to call a province wide convention to select a fighting leader who will organize every constituency in support of a reform program.

The Conservative Party officially died in 1940, although it was out of business for many years. The mortgage companies have not been idle and by hook or crook are making a determined fight to wipe out the Liberal Party by forcing co-operation (?) with the Independent Party, which, after all, is nothing but the old Tory party of special privilege under a new label—"Independent".

Liberalism is not dead but the party officials are or are trying to tie in with the mortgage companies' program.

Alberta has a system of voting which provides for proportional voting in Calgary and Edmonton with the transferable vote in the rural constituencies. There is no need of co-operation or amalgamation by the Liberal Party with the "Independent" party to defeat the Social Credit government, if the Liberal platform is such as to appeal to the voters. Under our Alberta system of voting, every candidate must get a majority to be elected. A minority candidate or government is impossible of election under our system of voting.

The rank and file Liberals demand a reform program, particularly monetary reform and will not follow so-called Liberal officials in any hole in the corner deals they may make with the mortgage companies to join the Independent Party.

The Liberals of British Columbia revolted against the Liberal and Conservative coalition government by voting C.C.F. in protest in the two by-elections held since the deal was made at the demand, it is reported, by the financial interests. Former Premier T. D. Pattulio resigned the premiership rather than sell out the reform Liberals of B.C. He predicted exactly what did happen.

The same thing will happen if such a deal is made in Alberta with reform Liberals voting Social Credit or even C.C.F. in protest.

Liberals require immediately the selection of a fearless reform leader, who will fight for the people of Alberta.

Salutes

LETTER IN LONDON NEWS-CHRONICLE

Sir: I am an A.E. sergeant and last week was on 48-hour leave.

I took my wife and two young sons to a picture show in the West End of London. From a point near to Waterloo Station to Regent Street I saluted 53 times.

As I had a small boy by the hand and a parcel under the same arm I got a little tired, to put it mildly.

Also, may I add, on seven occasions my salute was acknowledged with a "nod" and on five occasions ignored.

A sergeant major told me that on one occasion he saluted in two hours in London 122 times!

LONDON EVENING NEWS

The blitz on London was at its height and the King and Queen arrived one night at King's Cross station to leave on a journey north. As they boarded the royal train, enemy planes roared overhead and there was a terrific burst of AA fire.

With some concern, the stationmaster (Mr. Harry Ireland) said to the King: "You know what's going on. I hope you don't mind." "No," replied the King, quietly. "I don't mind."

He and the Queen declined to take shelter and went on their journey. Bombs were dropped; but neither the royal train nor the station was hit.

This has been disclosed by Mr. Ireland, who has retired after 48 years' L.N.E.R. service.

Labor Control Controversial

Attempt to Adjust Manpower Discrepancies Is Difficult Job

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA — Labor control is so new and controversial and so mixed in political argument, that the circumstances which made it necessary have begun to be forgotten. Labor control is a direct result of the policy of the universal wage and price ceiling adopted in Canada in December, 1941. Donald Gordon told the National War Labor Board on May 25: "Wage and price control are essential and interlocking parts of the government's programme to control the cost of living." Wage control, he said, was not desirable for its own sake, but it exists simply because the Canadian policy of economic stabilization could not possibly succeed without it.

The point that escapes notice is this: wage control inevitably means labor control. To get work done that needs doing, the incentive of peacetime is higher wages. If there is not enough lumber, an increase in wages in the lumber industry will attract manpower and other resources into the industry, and the nation will get the lumber it needs. If the people wanted more potatoes, they paid the farmer a little more in the form of a higher price to grow them.

But both wage and price increases, for the purpose of obtaining more production, were removed as economic incentives by the adoption in Canada of the universal ceiling. A great deal of what is called "the manpower muddle" arises from efforts to devise incentives. Instead of paying more to get certain essential work done, the policy is to "direct," with compulsion if necessary, labor into essential work.

A general increase in wages, in order to get all the essential tasks of total war performed, would of course greatly increase purchasing power and encourage inflation. But, having eliminated wage increases as an incentive, only a considerable intervention by the state will suffice to see that high priority uses are made of labor. The compulsions utilized in the Canadian policy have included denial of employment in non-essential lines to men eligible for military call, refusing to allow workers to leave essential work, i.e., freezing labor, and lately the direct transfer of workers from one job to another. Canadians have accepted these compulsions because they desire to win the war and they desire to avoid inflation, though the wage ceiling has not gone without challenge.

As Humphrey Mitchell, the Labor Minister, outlined the current results of manpower control in Parliament the other day, there was no doubt that considerable success has been attained in devising alternatives to the incentive of wage increases. The system is working and, in a long war, Canada could probably perfect its planned control of labor. The end result is that national resources have been mobilized for war. The United States has relied more upon higher wages to mobilize its war production, so that in the long run the merits of each policy can be judged by the degree each nation avoids inflation. As a permanent system, however, the existing labor control in Canada would commend itself only to an inveterate planner.

When Mr. Howe had his estimates before the House, he said he knew where he could place immediately 35,000 or 40,000 workers. In earlier stages of the war, Mr. Howe exercised the only powers that were used then to shut down industry, i.e., the withholding of materials. But now he will have to go to selective service in Mr. Mitchell's department for workers. On Mr. Mitchell's showing, Mr. Howe will probably get the workers he needs. In the twelve months ending March 1, 1943, the armed forces obtained 220,000 and industry 320,000 persons. This total of 540,000 persons shifted from one occupation to essential service represents a transfer without parallel, in time and scope, in Canadian history. It occurred in a period in which the nation achieved and maintained a condition of full employment. It occurred in the year in which Canada was trying to perfect its system of "placement control." The political argument of the day on manpower is to what extent credit should go to the Labor department, to men like Humphrey Mitchell, Arthur MacNamara or Elliott Little, or to the good common sense of Canadians who saw that jobs needed to be done and did them.

In the coming year, Mr. Mitchell placed requirements of the armed forces at 151,000 and of industry at 80,000, a total of 231,000. Obviously, though this will not be on the scale of manpower mobilization of the past year, the chances of getting these individuals will depend greatly on how well selective service is working. They will be obtained by 55,000 men and 60,000 women coming of age, by filling high priority jobs and letting the none-essentials go, and by attracting women into industry to replace men who enlist, are drafted or are transferred.

The premium is on able-bodied men, for the shortages are in mining, agriculture, logging and other primary industries. Iron and steel production, for instance needs 34,719 workers. Mr. Mitchell's figure showed that on April 29 employment office vacancies were 197,623, that unplaced applicants numbered 48,543 men and 28,186 women. On the face of it less essential occupations will have to be steadily curtailed. In a year and a half there has been a decline of 92,000 in civilian employment.

Economic waste involved in workers moving around for better jobs has been curtailed. Mr. Mitchell reported that between August, 1942, and February, 1943, lobar turnover declined from a rate of 8.3 to 4.8.

In a country like Canada, one of the great problems in labor control is mobility, i.e., the problem of getting workers where the essential work is. Men eligible for the draft were first made subject to compulsory transfer. Then conscientious objectors were made subject. Next ex-miners from the coal fields were directed back to the mines. Finally, as announced by Mr. Mitchell in his manpower review, youths of 16, 17 and 18 years were made subject to transfer, and from 16 to 65 years are subject to direction to fuelwood cutting. In the first report on how the compulsory transfer is working, Mr. Mitchell showed that 131,535 men had been dealt with, down to June 12, 1943. They went to high priority work, including 109,775 into agriculture, and only 8,132 remained to be dealt with. This is the record so far on taking men out of less essential work and directing them into essential work.

Giraud Confers With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud talked yesterday with President Roosevelt and high military officers who are as eager as he is to see his French forces armed and equipped to take a full share in driving the Germans from France.

The French commander, who shares the leadership of the French Committee of National Liberation in Algiers with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, lunched at the White House with President Roosevelt, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral William D. Leahy, the president's chief of staff who formerly was ambassador to Vichy France.

During the afternoon he called on Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador.

The bringing of Martinique into the war effort against the Axis, by displacing Admiral Georges Robert, Vichy French high commissioner in the Caribbean, was described in naval quarters meanwhile as well on the way toward accomplishment.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

One of the most popular of the Bridge League executives is its vice president, Capt. Benjamin M. Golder, now attached to selective service. In the last war he was an ensign in the Naval Air Service. For eight years he was a legislator for the state of Pennsylvania, and then served in Congress for eight years. Before the war, his hobby was attending bridge tournaments. An enjoyable session with a friend was more to his liking than the determination to win. He likes to bid, and on the hand shown today you could hardly blame West for doubling him.

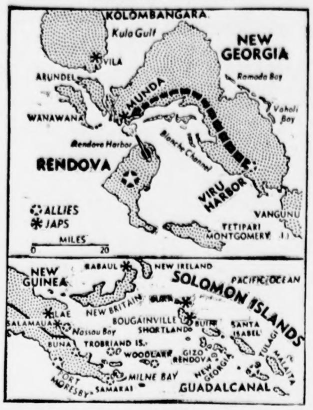
When Captain Golder trumped the opening lead and then took the diamond finesse, West began to feel himself slip. You can see now that all West could possibly make was his three trump tricks, so the contract was made with an overtrick.

If North had taken the double out with four clubs, Golder would have bid five, which can be made without a club opening.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin



While American artillery which had been landed on the Island of Rendova pounded the Japanese base at Munda, five miles across a channel, ground forces from U.S.-held Viru harbor fought through the jungle toward the same objective. Lower map shows the Solomon Islands area in which the offensive is being conducted.

My Day

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK.—Everyone I saw yesterday in New York City spoke of the change in temperature, so apparently more of us object to being very hot than appears on the surface. Most people seem to have learned to take whatever they get, day by day, and bear it cheerfully, and so you don't hear much complaints either of heat or cold. Perhaps we have learned another thing which I overheard a woman on the train say a few days ago—"When I am working it doesn't seem to matter what the temperature is, but when I am doing nothing, then I have plenty of time to think about it and I suffer every minute." The lesson from that would seem to be that if we keep right on doing our jobs, the jobs will become so absorbing we will forget about ourselves.

Being able to forget about oneself is one of the great blessings which good health brings to people. If you feel well your body is not a matter of concern to you—in fact you are not even conscious of it. If in addition to feeling well, you can wear clothes which are comfortable and which you feel are appropriate, and I suppose if you are a woman, becoming, you can pretty nearly succeed in forgetting about yourself.

It is much harder, however, to succeed from the point of view of eliminating introspection. We spend too much of our time wondering how we feel about this or that; what reactions we have to this or that occurrence, and when carried to an extreme, this can be one of the most hampering occupations, which gives one little time to think of anything but oneself.

Back in the country and though I am busy, it is not the kind of occupation which takes up every minute as in Washington.

We are getting good vegetables from our garden now and enjoying them greatly. This subsistence farming, so to speak, which everyone is being encouraged to engage in, has spread a long distance away. I heard the other day from the department of agriculture that the armed forces were starting a garden of many acres on Guadalcanal. It will be a big garden and ought to feed a great many of our boys, and give them many things they would be getting at home, for to my surprise, that climate will apparently allow a great many of our vegetables to be grown very profitably. I have a feeling that probably melons will also grow there. Though that was not on the list which the department of agriculture sent me. I can't help thinking what pleasure the boys who were farmers back home, will have in working in that garden so far away from home, and I hope they are allowed to have some flowers too, since man does not live by bread alone.

Minute Make-Ups

To give weary eyes a "lift" try this. Dip a piece of cotton in hot water. Then squeeze out and press it gently over the eyes. Then apply a piece of cotton which has been dipped in cold water. Apply a bit of eye cream around the eyes. Relax for one minute. Your eyes will feel refreshed!

POLAR BEARS DO NOT HIBERNATE IN WINTER

The general idea that polar bears all hibernate and sleep off their fat in winter, is not correct, scientists tell us. It is only the female bear that hibernates, and the male ventures out of his den for food throughout the winter months. This accounts for the fact that females are fater than males when spring comes. The males do not seem to have enough fat to keep them going all winter like the females.

Sosnkowski May Head Polish Army

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, July 9.—Reliable sources said today that Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, former war minister of Poland, will be named commander-in-chief of the Polish armed forces succeeding Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, killed in an airplane accident at Gibraltar.

Sosnkowski, 58, was minister of war for a term ending in 1927. The report that he would succeed Sikorski as commander in chief was unofficial but came from a usually reliable quarter.

Sikorski was premier of the Polish government in exile, as well as commander-in-chief.

Tokyo Newspaper Admits Offensive Gains in Pacific

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The Tokyo newspaper Asahi was quoted in a Berlin broadcast yesterday as emphasizing the severity of the fighting on the northern coasts of New Guinea and admitting that the Allies also were pushing forward in the Solomons.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said Asahi characterized the land, sea and air force attacks against the Japanese in the south Pacific as "very strong," and urged the people at home to unite to support the "hard fighting on the front."

The newspaper was quoted as saying that the Allied attack had "reached a climax by carrying the fight to New Guinea."

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

By Jack DeLong

TEAMS in the City Senior Baseball League are getting nowhere fast. Now don't get us wrongly folks. We don't mean that assertion as a knock. Anything but a knock for that matter.

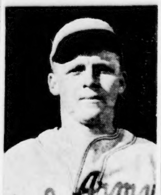
It's just another way of stating the cold statistical truth about the goings on in the horsehide dispensary below that painfully long hill.

On Tuesday evening the U.S. Army and Aircraft Repair Hornets, fought and gouged through 10 weird innings to a 9-9 draw. Naturally there was no change in the league standing. None of the hits collected by the contending athletes go into the official records. Of course the same thing is true of the errors, which is a mighty good thing, too, because there were 14 miscues in Tuesday's game.

We were all set to consider that contest as just so much wasted toil and turmoil, water under the bridge, and all that sort of stuff. Then, you know what happened last night? U.S. Army balltossers must have taken that new marching ditty of World War II to heart and have chanted: "We did it before and we can do it again." Because that's exactly what they did when they clashed with the Dodgers. Ten more well-played frames rolled by, leaving the clubs tied at three runs each.

Now if this kind of thing continues they should call the race for honors in the senior baseball circuit The Futility Futurity.

He Can Field



Harley Miller, brilliant-fielding U.S. Army shortstop, who turned in another dazzling performance Thursday as the Army and Dodgers battled to a 3-3 draw in 10 frames.

A SWEET GAME

AS to last night's game, it was a mighty sweet contest to watch. The Dodgers looked like league leaders instead of cellar dwellers for most of the distance.

They played errorless ball and were given steady pitching by young Tommy Brant, with the exception of the third innings, when the Army combed his offerings for five lusty hits that had a payoff value of three runs.

And although every run counted by the Yanks was earned, only sensational fielding kept their opponents from placing a lot more runners on the paths than they did.

And when it comes to fielding this fellow Harley Miller, who does the shortstopping for Uncle Sam's band of balltossers, looks better every time out.

His running catch of McDermott's potential Texas leaguer in the fifth was really something.

Then in the eighth frame the Army shortstop made an equally beautiful play on a sizzling grounder by Tommy Brant that resulted in Tougas going out at third for the last out of the inning. That play saved the Yanks a lot of grief.

LOOKS LIKE GEHRINGER

IT is too bad indeed that Miller seems unable to get his share of base hits. He reminds us a lot of Charley Gehringer, whose specialty was fielding hot grounders while sprinting in the same direction as the ball.

Many beautiful fielders have remained outside the big time because they lacked a few percentage points in the batting averages.

Back in the early twenties when Edmonton had an entry in the Western Canada Professional Baseball League, there were two notable examples of this.

Those who saw Phil Apperson play centrefield for the Esks will never forget his mighty fielding feats.

Phillip later attracted the attention of big league scouts and after a couple of seasons with Omaha and Rochester was reported sold to New York Yankees for $40,000. But feeble stick work during his last season in the big minors kept Apperson out of a Yankee "monkey suit". He finished his playing days in the minors.

Gus Gleichman, who managed the Esks at the time Apperson performed here, was another case in point. Several times Gus was headed for the big time but light batting kept him down. Gleichman was killed in an automobile accident in California some years ago.

We saw versatility in the flesh at the ball game last night. It was in the form of Bill Lewis eating a ham sandwich, swatting mosquitoes, and fanning his perspiring brow at the same time and seemingly enjoying the whole business.

Split With Cincinnati

Pinch Single Gives Phils Victory in 14 Inning Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—(AP)—Merill May's pinch single in the 14th inning broke up a scoreless tie and gave the Phillies a 1-0 victory over Cincinnati Reds Thursday, after the Reds took the first game 7-5 before 8,478 fans.

Dick (Kewpie) Barett, starting his second game for the Phillies, went all the way in the nightcap.

McKechnie

Bill McKechnie, manager of the Reds, announced after the game that he had filed a protest.

McKechnie said he was told that Umpire Magerkurth said "I don't think we can go any longer," just before May was sent in to bat for Barrett in the 14th.

BROOKLYN BEATEN AGAIN

BROOKLYN, July 9.—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Brooklyn Dodgers 8-2 Thursday with 10 timely hits, to help Truett (Rip) Sewell attain his 12th victory against two defeats. Elbie Fletcher started the Pirate scoring with a three-run homer in the first inning.

Another Senior League Bargain Contest

Dodgers Hold Yanks to 3-3 Ten Inning Tie

Good Baseball Is Served Up In Close Game

FOR the second occasion in succession, fans attending a City Senior Baseball League fixture at Renfrew Park, were given a bargain session of the diamond pastime Thursday evening, as Ralph Morgan's Dodgers battled the league-leading U.S. Army team to a 3-3 draw in 10 frames. It was also the second straight tie game for the Army airmen. Tuesday they struggled to a 9-9 deadlock after 10 frames of baseball with the Aircraft Repair Hornets.

Thursday's contest was one of the best, from the standpoint of sound baseball, that has been played in the city loop this season. About 1,100 saw the game.

For most of the 10 frames the game was a hurling duel between young Tommy Brant, who toiled for the Dodgers, and chunky Johnny Gray, who did the chucking for the Army.

Just one bad inning, the fourth, cost Brant a win. In that frame the Army smiters fell upon his offerings with great sound and much fury, collecting, five solid bingles that paid off in a cluster of three runs. A screaming three-base clout to deep left field by left fielder Bill Dunn of the Army and a two-ply wallop by Long John Gullekson, were among the five successive safe blows that caused all the damage to Tommy Brant and his Dodger mates. Lollo, Baldwin and Dorsky singled.

Outside of this one inning, Brant had the situation at all times well under control, and was seldom in serious difficulty. He was accorded big league support by his fellow Dodgers, who played errorless ball throughout the 10 frames.

The Yanks earned every run as a result of their stickwork in the fourth.

Brant yielded 10 hits in all and the Dodgers touched up Gray for a like number. And while the cellar dwellers earned only two of their three runs, Pitcher Gray can thank his mates for pulling him out of several dangerous situations.

The kind of defensive work you dream about, but seldom see, was dished up by the Yank infield three or four times, killing off what loomed as plenty of trouble for the league leaders.

Harley Miller, that peppery little shortfielder of the senior loop, was the defensive hero of the contest.

In the fifth, Miller raced back a furlong to rob Jim McDermott, the Dodger catcher, of what seemed like a certain Texas league hit.

Again in the eighth, this same fellow Miller sped across several acres to snaffle a sizzling grounder from the bat of Tommy Brant, making a lightning play to third base for a putout on Tougas.

The Yank shortstop was also in on two of three snappy double plays that featured the contest.

Ralph Morgan and Bill Dunn were the heavy artillery, each clouting lusty and honest three-base blows.

Baldwin and Gullekson hit two baggers. Brant struck out eight and Gray fanned six. Brant walked three and Gray two.

There were many striking similarities about the play of the two teams. Each squad had a total of 37 times at bat. Each scored three runs. There were 10 safe hits by each team. Naturally each side had 30 putouts. Dodgers had 15 assists and the Yanks 16. The Yanks had three errors and Dodgers none.

Dodgers scored two runs in the first frame on singles by Goldsworthy and Gauf and a triple by Morgan. Their third run came in the first of the fourth on singles by Tougas, Noon and Brant and a sacrifice by Superstein.

As previously detailed the Yanks scored all three of their runs in the last of the fourth.

Babe Dahlgren's Batting Average Falls to .182

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—(AP)—The man who barely a week ago was expected to bear the brunt of the National League's batting attack against the American League in the July 13 all-star game is off on a spectacular new batting spurt—downward in the standings.

He is big Babe Dahlgren, and he's taking the steepest batting average nose-dive of the season.

The Babe led the league consistently until a week ago. On June 9, for example, his average stood at .367—15 points ahead of his nearest rival, Stan Musial, of St. Louis Cardinals. It was a foregone conclusion that he'd be named for the "dream" game.

But when his selection was announced, his slump began. The Phillies star, who had been kicked around in the majors for six years until he joined the Phils this year, apparently was so conditioned to cuffings that he couldn't stand recognition. Since the managers named him July 1, his batting average has been an anemic .182. At bat 33 times, he's made only six hits, felling his average for the season to .321.

Dahlgren led the league in batting, he says, primarily because he developed a sore arm.

"I used to go for homers exclusively." (23 for the season is his record) he explains. "Then when I joined the Phils at spring training Bucky Harris put me at shortstop although my regular position was first base. The throws hurt my arm. It hurt to swing the bat. So I started not swinging so hard. The result was that I began to get a few base hits."

Fails to Break 1,500-Metre Mark

STOCKHOLM, July 9.—(AP)—Arne Andersson, Seweden's latest track sensation who last week ran the fastest mile ever recorded, failed Thursday to shatter Gunder Haegg's 1,500-metre world mark of 3:45.8.

Competing before a capacity crowd of 20,000 over a rain-soaked course the 27-year-old "flying school teacher" was timed in 3:48.8, three seconds slower than Haegg's record, in winning by 15 yards over his nearest competitor.

"The track was too heavy to set a record," Andersson said afterwards.

Ralston Wants Teams to Operate

OTTAWA, July 9.—(CP)—Decision to break up the Cornwall, Ont., army hockey team does not represent general army policy, Defence Minister Ralston indicated Thursday in an interview.

Col. Ralston said the army sport program, including both football and hockey, is at present under review by a committee in the adjutant-general's branch. The committee's report will go to the army council for a decision.

Air Minister Power said a similar study is being made for the R.C.A.F. navy minister Macdonald described the navy's general sport policy as "to encourage teams to join local leagues, but not those which require travel."

Eva's Boy Wins Harriman Cup

CLEVELAND, July 9.—(AP)—Eva's Boy, a 10-to-1 shot owned by Walter Michaels of Bucyrus, O., and driven by Wayne Smart, made off with a straight-heat victory in the $3,000 Harriman Cup trot for two-year-olds at North Randall Thursday.

The $2,025 National pacing stake for two-year-olds, the first heat of which was taken by Attorney before the weather halted Wednesday's program, was won by Good Bye. Winner of both heats carried over to yesterday. Good Bye is a Hal Dale colt owned by Mrs. James B. Johnson of Rochester, Mich., and was steered by Sep Palin.

Aircraft Repair Wins 16-1 To Enter Northern Finals

AIRCRAFT REPAIR CUBS advanced into the northern Alberta provincial senior men's fastball finals Thursday night when they trounced U.S. Army Air Corps 16-1 on Al Young's two-hit pitching at Kingsway Park.

"Tex" Godbey and Litecky allowed 14 safeties between them in chucking for the U.S. club. Besides hurling two-hit ball, Young struck out 11 and only issued three passes.

"Sunny" Wheatfield and Bill Sasyn led the hitters with three each while Wheatfield, Bill LaRocque and Ken McAuley paced the runmaking attack.

U.S. Army Air Corps took the lead in the initial half of the first inning when Clint Kellams singled and scored on an eror at centre field, but two runs which were brought home by LaRocque, a military replacement from No. 3 "M" Depot and McAuley put the Cubs out in front.

"Sunny" Wheatfield, LaRocque, McAuley and Bill Sasyn made it 6-1 in the third when they scored for the Aircrafters and then a nine run rally in the fourth by the same team put them well out in front.

Bill Sasyn brought in one in the seventh after he had singled past third, went to third on two wild pitches and home on Jackowith's one-base hit.

A great catch was made by Elmer Parent, U.S. Air Corps' centre fielder when he ran back to the fence to grab McAuley's fly ball.

Greater Distance In New Golf Balls

DETROIT, July 8.—(AP)—The Balata ball that baseball men came to despise is by some tests giving the golfer more distance this summer on his booming drives.

This was on the authority Thursday of Jimmy Demaret, Detroit pro, whose tests have changed doubting duffers into cheerful contributors of old golf balls into the reprocessing hopper.

Before club members at his course Demaret stepped to the tee with half a dozen balls—three from the pro shop shelves and three reprocessed ones. His longest drive of 255 yards was with an old pellet. The reprocessed ball averaged eight yards more in distance.

A few days later Demaret repeated his experiment and got the same eight-yard difference.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The hall was dark, deserted by the fighters and managers who usually line its walls, and the silence was broken only by a song writer's piano in one of the adjoining offices.

That was the unfamiliar scene in Uncle Mike's suite on Jacobs' Beach Thursday, proving that although boxing may not be dead it's stretched on the canvas for a nine count.

The empty hall was only a prelude. For the full impact of boxing's inactivity strikes home like a Joe Louis uppercut when you step into the ante-room.

UNCLE MIKE'S ROOM

BENCHES along the wall are empty of the shifting assortment of smoking, talking and gesticulating citizens of Lammer's Lane who normally haunt Mr. Boxing's doorstep.

Uncle Mike's room, usually crowded with managers hagging over their end of the purse, is empty. The boss is on his Rumson, N.J., estate, playing the gentleman farmer. As for the managers, well—there aren't any purses.

Rubbing a shining forehead, matchmaker Nat Rogers sits disconsolately in his office. Feet cocked on his desk and hands aching to write a contract he mumbles about "a couple of fights coming up later in the summer—but nothing definite yet."

IN DOUBT

WHITE-HAIRED Walter St. Denis wanders in from the publicity department, props his feet up along side the Rogers' brogans, and munches a sandwich.

The walls are covered with fight pictures and, in the midst of past bouts, the boys seem to be looking out as if wondering in the stillness whether the fans have walked out on them.

"Mike's raising a lot of alfalfa on his farm," Rogers comments.

"That's hay, aint it?" queries St. Denis.

It's all you can take and you walk out.

A group of 25 Indians from the Hobbema district, who have been working with a section gang on the C.P.R. in the Lacombe area for the last three weeks, have created a great deal of interest, as it is only on rare occasions that Indians are engaged in this type of work. The Indians have been turning in some good work on the tracks, too, according to the various section foremen. They have made their home in tents along the right-of-way in Lacombe.

The Indians could not resist the opportunity to attend the stampede at Calgary, however, and they folded their tents like the Arabs early this week and departed for the southern city. Railway officials are hoping that they will return when the tumult and the shouting has died away at the Stampede.

The bicycle was drawn beneath the moving street car.

Miss Lusty, crowded into the right front corner of the street car, jumped from the cycle just as the tram collided with the left rear fender of the auto.

Motorman Couture stated he saw the auto pull away from the curb and from behind a parked truck, directly in front of the street car, without first giving a signal. He saw the cyclist being crowded into the corner of the tram, he said.

Constable J. A. Robertson, of the city police force, a passenger on the tram, was standing in the vestibule intending to get out at 102 avenue. He reported having seen the accident and said the car driver had not signalled before moving from the curb. Neither the tram or the cycle had any chance of avoiding the accident, he said.

Seek Materials To Repair Streets

Alarmed by the deterioration in the city's paved streets through lack of asphaltic material for repair work the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce has joined the City of Edmonton in making representations to the Dominion Oil Controller, G. R. Cottrelle, seeking a more liberal allowance of asphaltic products for necessary, and urgent repair work.

Representations were made early this year by the city commissioners and city engineer's department for a supply of asphaltic material, but only a very small portion of the supply requested was granted.

Considerable city maintenance work is at present held in abeyance because of shortage of manpower and material.

Soldier Slightly Injured by Truck

Pte. J. A. Shaw, 11736 83 street, was taken to University hospital about 10:20 a.m. Thursday, after being injured in a collision with a truck driven by Halph Maier, 12518 83 street, at 111 avenue and 95 street.

His injury was confined to a bruised hip. He stated to city police that he was unaware that the proper procedure in turning a corner on a bicycle was to keep to the right. He attached no blame to the driver of the truck, which vehicle he struck on the left front bumper. He was taken to hospital in an army ambulance.

Evacuation Plans For Halifax Made

HALIFAX, July 9.—(CP)—Plans are being made to evacuate civilians from Halifax, if an attack on this city should make it necessary, Major O. R. Crowell, director of civil defence, stated Wednesday. Evacuation would be carried on only with permission of military authorities, and would not take place during an attack, he said.

Canada's Army Show Designed To Aid Morale

The purpose of the Army Show was to build morale within and without the forces, Major Victor George, originator of the Canadian Army Show, told members of the Rotary club at the Macdonald hotel Thursday.

The personnel of the show comes from all over Canada, every one of whom is a member of the active army. Each one "enjoys" army pay, he said, and the show travels as an armed unit. There are 90 performers connected with the show which carries its own cooking and stage equipment, from lights and sound system to platform. There are 1,100 pieces of costume, many of which have been donated.

There is much professional background to those taking part in the show, continued Major George, and the program has received much publicity in leading newspapers and periodicals.

FORCES ENTERTAINED

Income of the show is beyond expenditures, he said, but these monies go back to troop entertainments and troop welfare. While civilian audiences have been big, with virtually many sell-outs, audiences made up of men of the armed services are greater by several thousands to date.

Besides putting on shows, this organization makes weekly broadcasts. The whole is designed to be an expression of the army, and it is the hope that by this means the army will be humanized and humorized.

Entertainments for the armed services are free, he said, while those put on for civilians are charged for. This has led to a popular saying within the army show:

"We'll play free to all the camps, but gad! how we'll clip you civilians!"

J. F. Philp, for the past 25 years secretary of Rotary in Edmonton, who will celebrate his 70th birthday on Saturday, was remembered at the meeting. President Reg. T. Rose, on behalf of the club, presented Mr. Philp with one dozen golf balls.

Delightful musical interlude came with a selection by Egon Grapentin, violinist. Mary Drummond Hatlin acted as accompanist.

Highway Violations Bring Fines in Traffic Court

A little learning is a dangerous thing, a proverb says. At the same time, a little learning can be of great help, especially when one is unable to read or understand the signs which appear at various points along the king's highway, and particularly if an officer of the law is waiting near one of those signposts for the express purpose of seeing that notice is being taken of them.

Nick Sereda told the court Thursday afternoon that he couldn't read English, so had not paid attention to the warning about fast driving. R.C.M.P. had timed him, and found accused had been travelling at 40 miles an hour. Accused said he was doing 24.

Magistrate Harold L. Hawe, K.C., was interested and wanted to know how the accused could tell he was only going 24; the latter referred to his speedometer. Mr. Hawe suggested he had better learn to read and imposed a fine of $5 and costs or seven days.

Similar levies were made on Alex Sherstenk, who failed to dim his headlights when meeting another vehicle. The car he met was a police patrol. John Smerychynski, Mike Kohut, Peter Muraca, Don Chinn, William Meyer and Andrew Void, for motor vehicle law infractions, were each fined the same amount.

Fines of $15 and costs or 20 days were assessed Victor Vaillant and Emile Aubin. The court was told that the first named hadn't been able to see the police car for the dust he was making as he raced along at 38 miles an hour in his truck.

Mike Zadunaiski, who said his name was John, Alberta M. Savoy and Edmund Majeau, were each assessed $10 and costs or 15 days for travelling on the highway during a ban, for unlawfully carrying passengers in a truck, and for heading a police parade on the highway at 39 miles an hour over a two and a half mile stretch. "What's the hurry?" asked the magistrate, as he passed judgment.

Services Council Receives Reports

At an executive meeting of the War Services Council held on Tuesday evening, with Harold L. Weir in the chair, a resolution was passed congratulating Frank Pike, president of the council, on recovery from his recent serious illness.

Plans for the establishment of a C.W.A.C. hostel were reported as proceeding satisfactorily. The same applied to the recreation centre proposals. Statements on these questions may be made public shortly.

Harold Wright, reporting for the entertainment committee, said a policy had been formulated whereby Americans and Canadians were working in close collaboration in providing entertainment at the various military camps.

Mrs. J. H. Morris, reporting for the home and hospitality committee showed that 118 service men had been entertained in Edmonton homes for various periods and that many dinner, dance and picnic invitations had been arranged.

Mrs. W. E. Goodall for the women's war auxiliaries asked the council to extend any possible help in the promotion of the forthcoming tag-days, particularly in the organization of street parades with bands to publicize them, and the provision of some taggers by the Central Volunteer Bureau. Co-operation to the fullest extent was promised.

Mr. Wright reported a successful sports day on July 1, with American and Canadian forces participating, and the South Side business men providing prizes.

In the absence of Mrs. Arnold Tayler, Mrs. Harold Weir read a report on the activities of the Central Volunteer Bureau since its formation six months ago. This was unanimously approved.

Refunding of Debt Before Reconstruction Era Urged

Transferred

Betty Reilly Shaw of 75 Maclean block, who enlisted in the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service last December, and for the last six months has been stationed on the east coast, has been transferred to H.M.C.S. York, Holwood House, Toronto, the former home of Sir Joseph Flavelle, preparatory to being posted to a new assignment. She was to have arrived in the city this week on furlough, but this has been postponed indefinitely. Her husband, Robert Shaw, is a veteran of the Great War of 1914-1918.

Finance Officer Talks to Knights

Lt.-Col. L. B. Markey, United States Army finance officer, was guest speaker at the semi-monthly meeting of Local Council 1184, Knights of Columbus, at the group's 100 avenue club-house Thursday evening.

Lt.-Col. Markey spoke on the armed and service forces of the United States Army, giving a brief description of the various component branches which comprise that army. The finance department, he said, had the work of auditing, administration, authorization and disbursement of payment to all military and civilian workers and contractors in this area.

J. J. Leahy, newly-elected Grand Knight of the Council, presided at the meeting, and W. J. Monaghan was in charge of entertainment.

Sees Doubling Of Population In Two Decades

Industrial and agricultural expansion of Canada in the post-war period will result in the doubling of the Dominion's present population within the next two decades in the opinion of A. O. Dawson, Toronto, vice-president and general manager, L. C. Smith and Corona Typewriters Co., Ltd., who is in Edmonton in the course of a business tour of Western Canada.

He said that the post-war reconstruction period would be a challenge to leaders in Canadian industry. Solution of these post-war problems would be difficult, he said, but not beyond the ability of Canadian business to cope with.

New standards were being created and extended through employee and employer committees. These new standards would be carried into the post-war period and would be greatly extended as industrial expansion took place.

He paid tribute to the excellent work accomplished through employer-employee committees in Canadian industry.

He was of the opinion that the post-war period would see a great increase in Canada's population as industrial and agricultural development took place.

The bitter lessons of recurring wars in Europe, coupled with the facilities that Canada has to offer industry will be factors in the migration of industries from the old land, he said.

SEED SOWN

Commenting on the industrialization of Western Canada, Mr. Dawson said that the seed of industrial expansion in the west had been sown, and it will bear fruit in the post-war period. He said that the people of the east had been too prone to look upon the west as an agricultural centre, and that there has not been a complete realization of the industrial possibilities of Western Canada.

He said that manufacturing facilities could be made just as accessible in the west as they had been in the east, and added that this viewpoint is fast gaining ground in the east.

Soldier Returns Here With His Bride

Cadet Sgt. Charles Vincent Lilley and his wife, who is formerly of Singapore. Mrs. Lilley came to Edmonton three months ago from England to make her home with Maj. and Mrs. C. W. Lilley, 11030 81 avenue, and Sgt. Lilley arrived Wednesday night, after seven years of foreign service, to spend a brief furlough with his family.

Young Soldier Returns After 7 Years Service: Will Train as Officer

By JAN PARKER

With seven years of foreign service behind him, Cadet Sgt. Charles Vincent Lilley returned Wednesday night to his home at 11030 81 avenue for the first time since his departure to join the British Army in July, 1936. And for the first time, he saw his son, Ronald Vincent, who was born here last June 26.

Sgt. Lilley's wife made her initial trip to Canada from England last April when she came to make her home with her husband's parents, Maj. and Mrs. C. W. Lelley.

When Sgt. Lilley went to England, he joined the Loyal North Lancashires, mother regiment of the Edmonton Regiment, and became a regimental sergeant major. His years with this company sent him to Malta, Colombo, Malaya, Shanghai, Singapore and Australia.

For a time, he served as a guard on British ships making the run from Shanghai to Australia at the time the Japanese invaded that Chinese city.

From there he was posted to Singapore for three years. There he met Miss Mariejta (Meechie) Lancaster, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. H. H. Lancaster of Singapore, and they were married in August, 1941.

BACK TO ENGLAND

After Singapore, Sgt. and Mrs. Lilley went to England, where they remained until coming back to this country. Mrs. Lilley's father has been reported missing since his ship was lost in the South Pacific. Her brother is a prisoner of the Japanese, and her mother and sister are now in Australia.

She will make her home here with Sgt. Lilley's parents for an indefinite period. Sgt. Lilley will leave after a short furlough to attend an officers' training school at Gordon Head, Victoria, B.C. He was transferred to the Edmonton Regiment, Canadian army, in September, 1942.

Sgt. Lilley attended Queen Alexandra public and Strathcona high schools here, and upon finishing Grade 12, joined the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

His brother, Ronald Lilley, who has just completed high school, is now at Sarcee Camp, Calgary, and he has a sister at Yellowknife, N.W.T.

His father is transport and supply officer of the district depot here, and served throughout the Great War of 1914-18 with the 49th Battalion (Edmonton Regiment).

Mother of the missing boy, in informing authorities at 10:20 p.m. Thursday, stated that he had left at 5:30 a.m. Wednesday to accompany a bakery driver, Allan Russell, of 9819 83 avenue. Russell said the lad had been with him until 1 p.m. Wednesday, but he had not seen him since. The boy left a jacket in the truck and it was still there, Russell stated.

South Drought Injurious to Crops, Cattle

Drought conditions in southern Alberta have now reached serious proportions, Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, states in a crop report released Friday. The southern drought area embraces all that part of Alberta south of Calgary, and east of a line running from Calgary through Cardston.

"Crops in that area are undergoing deterioration, and hay and pastures are very poor," says Mr. MacMillan. "Concern is being felt over the ability of pastures there to maintain the present population of livestock."

GOOD IN NORTH

In central and northen Alberta, warm weather and good moisture conditions have made for ideal crop development, and the crops are listed as "generally good".

The crops in these areas are about ten days later than normal, and the combination of abundant moisture, delayed summerfallowing, and warm weather has resulted in a heavier-than-usual growth of weeds, it is reported. Many areas complain of slight to considerable weed damage, especially where crops were late in being seeded.

Except in a few scattered localities, hail damage is said to be nil.

A decline is noted in the condition of livestock in the present drought area, corresponding to the decline of pasture and hay crops. Farmers near Medicine Hat are reported to be selling their cattle at low prices, and some, where no pasture exists, are turning their livestock into grain fields.

In central and northern Alberta, the livestock picture is said to be satisfactory.

Livestock marketings for the period ending July 7 were good, Mr. MacMillan says. Calgary enjoyed a heavier cattle run, but steers and heifers held steady. Good to choice butcher steers made $11.50 to $12.35, and hogs were steady at $15.40 for a basic grade. Spring lambs paid $14.00 to $14.65.

ACTIVE TRADE HERE

At Edmonton, an active trade was noted, under light receipts due to bad road conditions. Good to choice steers made from $11.75 to $12.25, and B-1 hogs continued at $15.40. Spring lambs sold at Edmonton from $12.50 to $14.75.

Milk production showed a satisfactory increase in June, and creamery butter showed a 5 per cent increase for the month, with cheese showing a 35 per cent decrease. The drop in cheese production in June is due to an 8-cent subsidy on cream, which diverted some from cheese factories to creameries.

The agriculture department expects dairy production to reach a peak during the coming week, around July 10, and the production should hold at a high level for the next few weeks.

THE QUESTION

Will the present German offensive hasten the opening of the second land front in Europe?

THE ANSWERS

GERALD O'CONNOR, K.C., barrister: I am of the opinion that the present German attack is designed to force the hand of the Allies to make an attack before all arrangements have been completed. There is little chance of the Allies making any move until they are completely organized. The attack seems to be extremely costly for the small gains reported.

HARRY NOLAN, trader: The German attack may be a morale uplifter to give the war machine something to tell the folks in Germany. There has been little news of a cheering nature for them in recent months. It should make it easy for the boys in the "lie shops" to tell of great victories on the Russian front.

WILLIAM FRASER, bookkeeper: The present German offensive is a desperate plunge to distract attention from the desperate plight in which the Reich leaders find themselves. They must have an alternative to the constant news of devastation spread by United Nations' airplanes throughout Germany and Italy. It is easier to tell the people of attacks in Russia than it is to inform them of devastation in Germany.

Alberta in Forefront Of Industrial Picture Seen If Action Taken

Refunding of the public debt of Alberta is highly desirable before the province enters the post-war reconstruction era, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education, told a meeting of Social Credit groups in the Social Credit Hall, 9974 Jasper Avenue, Thursday evening.

If the refunding were accomplished before the reconstruction and development period begins, then Alberta will be in the forefront of the Canadian industrial picture, and will march forward to an unprecedented period of industrial activity.

Mr. Low gave his audience a clear picture of the debt situation in the province, and outlined the basis of refunding schemes, using round figures to illustrate his points.

PROTECT BONDHOLDERS

"It is the individual bondholder we must protect," he declared. "It is the province's responsibility to restore the marketability of our bonds for the sake of the individual bondholder."

The individual holders are at the mercy of the market, and they should not be penalized as to principal, he said.

The provincial treasurer also told the group that if the province refunded, it would be in a position to release cash from trust funds to pay off some $3,800,000 that remains owing on provincial savings certificates, and provide some money for necessary road work.

The roads should be kept in first-class condition, he stated, so as to have them ready to do their part in any forthcoming industrial expansion.

Mr. Low recalled his declarations to the past two sessions of the legislature, when he told the house the government wants to refund the whole of the debt. It is possible to evolve a plan which will be satisfactory and equitable to both the bondholders and the province, and it is hoped the day is not far dis-

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Every mother discovers if she puts the active child in his high chair and leaves him alone he shortly becomes a menace to his own safety.

He prefers to stand up during his feeding and if she steps out of the room, he will as quickly step out of his chair.

When he is put in his toidy chair, unless fastened in, he won't sit down or stay there long enough to be successful. In fact there are plenty of situations in the child's busy day when fasteners of one kind or another have to be used to keep his mind on the task at hand.

Most fasteners should be used when the child is so young he takes them for granted. The small child gets so used to the tiny harness which comes with some feeding chairs that he lifts his arms for their arjustment when he sits down. He is free to move about but not to get in and out of the chair.

If there is no harness attachment which can be used in high chair or carriage, use an ordinary tea towel around the baby's body underneath the arms. This is wide and soft and can be tied back of the high chair so there is no pressure on the stomach. It will prevent his slipping out of the chair or standing up and causing everyone acute discomfort and subjecting himself to possible peril.

When the child is old enough to climb over the edge of the crib, put the crib sides down and give him that privilege. But this does not mean he may run out of his room at will. There should be a dutch door (bottom closed and top open) or a gate, well fastened or even tied, so he may have plenty of freedom within his room, but is there where he is safe.

Children so treated do jump in and out of bed many times before they get in for naps or bedtime, but if they are told to climb in bed when they are ready to go to sleep, they do, without even calling for attention.

Mothers have to be realistic. Children need some restraint during those years between about 16 months and 2½ years when they prefer activity to eating or sleeping and yet cannot protect themselves from the results of their perpetual motion.

Every child must understand that within limits he has freedom to run around his room, or out of his bed, but not to roam the whole house when it is time for bed. When it is mealtime he must sit down until he is through.

The freedom he would have without some such restraint would be only the freedom to stand up and be nagged and scolded and punished by an irate parent. The parents' nerves would be made raw by her anxiety the child might fall out of the chair, as well as her anxiety to get his food into him.

Nothing is gained by silly sentimentality about not tying a child safely in his room, his toidy or high chair when none of these is for punishment but only for the child's own safety.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Boy 19, Girl 17 Are Ignorant of Marriage

Service Men Who Rush Into Marriage With Young Girl They Know Little of, Could Give Advice to This Lad

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a boy 19 years old who is in the army. He has met a girl after a three weeks' acquaintance he has gotten engaged to her. Of course, at his age, with his limited acquaintance with the girl, and without his having any money or way of supporting a wife, we made him promise that he would not marry the girl until after the war was over. He was perfectly willing to do this, but now we have received a letter from him saying that he wants to get married right away, because his girl writes to him in all of her letters that she cannot wait so long to marry him for she loves him and thinks about him all the time. She is just 17 years old.

Our son has lots of studying that he should do, but her letters importuning him to marry her keep his mind off of his work. What can we do about it?

A WORRIED MOTHER AND FATHER

Answer: Unfortunately there is no way of putting old heads on young shoulders and making boys in their teens see that the girls who are trying to force them into marriages, for which they know they are not ready, are simply playing them for suckers. If there were, it would save about nine-tenths of the foolish, hurry up, war marriages that are taking place, and the subsequent misery and divorce that are bound to follow.

If the lads who have fallen for strange cuties and gotten engaged to them after a two or three weeks' acquaintance, and who are being pushed by them into marriages that are against their better judgments, could read some of the innumerable letters that come to this column from their fellow soldiers and sailors who have been practically dragged to the altar by girls of whom they are already tired, they would turn a deaf ear to the voice of the siren and refuse to be taken in by her wiles.

These letters are almost of a pattern. A young boy who knows nothing of the world, who is out on his own for the first time, meets a girl who gives him the high sign. He is lonesome, he is homesick, he is girl-crazy, and it is no trick at all for her to make him think he is in love with her, and to believe every word she says when she tells him how much she loves him. And the first thing he knows they are engaged.

He tells here he has no way of supporting a wife and she agrees to wait until after the duration. But almost immediately she begins pressing for a marriage. She tells him that she loves him so much she can't stand not to be with him. She will die of loneliness when he is gone. The boy is flattered to death and is wax in her hands, and what he doesn't even suspicion is that the chances are that the innocent little thing is thinking of is the part of his allotment she will get, and what she will do with his insurance if he should be killed.

So they are married, and the boy is sent to another camp or maybe overseas, and he soon begins to find out that there are other girls better-looking and more attractive than the wife he left behind him, and he wants to know what is the quickest and easiest way of getting a divorce, and how is he going to get out of the mess he got into.

Any boy of 19 is capable of committing any sort of a love folly, but he should also be capable of using a little common sense, and that should also be capable of using a little common sense, and that should tell him that no boy of his age and no girl of 17 are ready for marriage. They don't know their own minds, or what kind of husbands and wives they are going to want as life partners. Nor can they possibly know on a three weeks' acquaintance anything about each other's dispositions, or tastes and habits, or whether they will be able to get along together, or fight like cat and dog.

Nor have they, as a rule, enough money to finance a marriage that will have a chance of success. After the war is over every boy will have to come back and tackle the job of learning how to make a living, and it is going to be a terrible handicap to him if he has a wife and maybe a child to support. He should, at least, give himself a fair chance by keeping free.

And no man should marry a woman who tries to force him into it. No woman does that unless she is looking for a meal ticket. A happy husband is one who feels that his wife conferred a favor on him by marrying him. He wants to feel that he walked triumphantly to the altar, not that he was dragged there by the scruff of the neck.

RESENTS STEP-CHILD

Dear Miss Dix: I am married to a very sweet and intelligent girl and until about six months ago we were very happy together. The trouble started when she discovered that she can never have a child and since then she has been very resentful towards my young daughter by a former marriage. Even in the past I noticed that she was always very cold and unfriendly to the child and always seemed ill at ease even when we had her over for a week-end. This was so marked that I often felt sorry that I had the child over to our house.

Now, as conditions are, matters are worse. I don't know how to make my wife realize that it doesn't make any difference to me whether she can have children or not. Maybe she thinks that I will leave her, but I love her dearly and would never think of parting from her. Do you think that if we have my little daughter over oftener that my wife will overcome her resentment against her and will perhaps learn to love her as her own? She is only five years old and I think she deserves some consideration, but I don't want to make my wife unhappy.

WORRIED.

Answer: Evidently your wife is is one of the jealous and monopolistic women who cannot bear to think of sharing her husband's love with anyone else, and she is trying to cut you off from your child. She is no second wife material and would probably be a cruel stepmother to your little girl if she had to have her about.

If the child is with relatives who love her and are tender to her, you had better let her stay with them.

There are women who feel that it is some sort of disgrace to them, as women, if they cannot have children. I would say that your wife belongs to this class and that her resentment to your little girl is based on this feeling, as well as her fear that it might make a difference to you in your feelings towards her. Doubtless as time goes on and she sees that ti does not matter to you, she will learn to take the matter philosophically.

In reality, she is worrying about the wrong thing, for you are bound to be hurt by the knowledge that she is so small and selfish and loves you so little that she is not willing even to have your child pay you a visit. A stepmother separates her husband from his children at her peril.

What To Do

Get your share of sunshine this summer. You may not be able to go to your favorite resort, but you can and you should spend time relaxing in the sun. The number of vitamins in sunshine will do you a world of good, so plan a way to get your quota this summer.

A couple of neck chairs and a gay umbrella in your back yard will add to your "at home" vacation.

Don't forget sunglasses when you are going to spend hours in the sun. They relieve glare and keep you from getting those unattractive "squint" lines at the corners of your eyes. A protective layer of sun oil or lotion will save you from sunburn agony too.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(CP)—Irene Baird is proof of what a woman can do with bad breaks if she puts enough steam behind her drive.

Mrs. Baird is now conference and convention film officer of the Canadian [illegible] in the United Nations war effort to convention and conference programs. It is a job which has taken her over a wide circuit in Canada [illegible] United States.

But it is a long and stony way from that job back to the spot where Mrs. Baird stood in 1933. She was born in England [illegible] B.C.

CAME THE DEPRESSION

Then came the depression which put a crimp in building and the engineering business. Mrs. Baird wasted little time in worrying. She wrote [illegible] to coin more wealth fast. Instead she acquired a fine collection of rejection slips.

[illegible] Try as I would I couldn't get that manuscript back. So finally in a fit of sheer rage I sat down and re-wrote the book from start to finish but made it about a third longer. Then I sent it back to the same agent. That time she sold it. It was my novel 'John' and it turned out to be a best-seller in Canada. It was also published in the United States, England, Australia, New Zealand and Sweden."

Later Mrs. Baird wrote two more books and then served a session as columnist on The Vancouver Sun and The Vancouver Daily Province.

FOR WAR WORK

In 1941 she wanted to do something in the war effort. So, when she had a two-minute interview with the Film Board Commissioner she asked if there were something she could do with the Film Board. A month later she was offered a job, left her family in her mother's care and hopped a train for Canada.

Mrs. Baird's first work was with the Canadian National Film Board Information Service. Then she began to travel with [illegible] films showing Canada's part in the war effort and to make talks as they were shown. A group of women from the American Association of University Women heard one of her film-talks in Canada and invited her to make a tour of their branches which took her from coast to coast in the United States in 1942. Gradually the scope of her work widened until it developed into her present roving commission.

"My work is varied and uncircumscribed," she said, "but my particular interest is in the field of Canadian American relations. [illegible] among the nations.

I'M GOING TO HELP CANADA

CANADA needs me for lots of things. My Mommie says that my daddy and all the soldiers as well as men and women making the guns are fighting right now to make my world a bigger and better one.

We went to see my doctor in his new uniform yesterday, and I heard him tell my Mommie to see his friend if I got sick while he was away . . . and for her to be sure to read Myrtle Meyer Eldred's YOUR BABY AND MINE every day in The Bulletin.

Now, every day when Mommie is reading YOUR BABY AND MINE in The Edmonton Bulletin I keep real quiet and don't bother. I know she's learning something that will be a big help in keeping me in fightin' trim to lick those big problems ahead of me. Canada will need big men just like my Mommie wants me to be!

ALONE IN A CROWD

Famous Firm Celebrating Anniversary

In 1868, three men sat in their shadowy, gas-lighted office and laid plans for a company which, this year, is celebrating its 75th anniversary, 31 years manufacturing in Canada, a fact of which Harvey W. Olsen, the managing director is extremely proud.

These men undoubtedly possessed industry, imagination and foresight. But it is doubtful if any of the three could have foreseen the day when their little firm of Libby, McNeill and Libby would pack a greater variety of food under one label than any other company in the world.

The three men were Arthur A. Libby, Archibald McNeill and Charles P. Libby. They started out with one product — an excellent cooked corned beef. As the business grew, new products were added, until today the company packs canned meats and meat products, fruits, vegetables, baby foods, an assortment of juices, a variety of pickles, sauces and relishes, as well as salmon and evaporated milk. There are more than 100 items altogether and they are packed in scores of canneries in Canada, the United States and Hawaii.

In the 75 years since the company was founded, Libby's has faced several wars and has contributed toward the winning of them. The company's many years of experience in processing food, plus its capacity to produce those foods in volume, is now dedicated unreservedly to the winning of the present war. Nutritious food in great quantity is needed by the millions of fighting men in the various United Nations services. It is vital too, that the home front workers be well fed so that they may be kept alert and vigorous at their essential wartime task.

STEADY GROWTH

But the large measure of public favor which Libby's enjoys is not built upon its wartime services. Libby's business has grown and developed through the past three-quarters of a century in direct ratio as it has been of increasing service to the people of the civilized world.

In 1868 the preservation of food in cans or bottles was in its early infancy. Limitations of scientific knowledge and processing facilities greatly restricted the few who had the hardihood to enter it, but by virtue of constant laboratory research and ingenuity, Libby's was enabled constantly to improve its methods and develop advanced processes that put an increasing variety of foods within the scope of its operations.

Thus Libby's has contributed more and more through the passing years to the emancipation of the housewife from drudgery in the kitchen. As year after year went by and food after food was added to the Libby's line, women all over this continent and throughout the world have found it possible to serve increasingly appetizing meals with constantly less effort. The ladies are spending less time in the kitchen, yet serving exquisite food —and Libby's is one of the major reasons for this escape from long hours of sweltering over a hot stove.

In wartime particularly the nation's nutrition takes on new importance. There are some eight groups of essential foods in the recommendations of the government for a good nutrition. Five of these eight groups include food that Libby's pack. Every effort is being made to see that these foods are available on the home front in sufficient quantities to meet essential needs. But, in this war, operations are on so gigantic a scale that even Libby's acres of factories are taxed to the utmost to meet the demand. The special needs of the armed services occasion a drain upon Libby's resources and facilities so as temporarily to reduce the supplies normally available on the grocers shelves. As a wartime measure, Libby's production for civilian markets is proportioned among dealers as fairly as possible, that every community may have its due share.

Montreal & Toronto

MONTREAL, July 9—(AP)—Paper securities moved up sharply in trading today on the stock exchange and curb market. The stimulant which shot up prices was the unofficial announcement from New York that Canadian newsprint mills are asking the United States Price Administration Board for an increase of $6 per ton.

Wheat Prices Ease Slightly

WINNIPEG, July 9—(CP)—Wheat futures eased slightly today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to close ⅜ higher to ¼ lower. July finished at $1.06½.

Steady buying was credited to American account. Trading was on a lighter scale than yesterday and offerings were not heavy.

A continued shortage of boats restricted business in the cash wheat market and dealings were held to odd cars of No. 1 Northern. Spreads were unchanged. No new business was transacted in cash coarse grains.

Rye futures eased in sympathy with weaker prices at Chicago. Inter-market spreading operations were indicated.

Oats and barley futures remained at ceiling levels with no trades posted.

Africa Waits

By ACHMED ABDULLAH

THE STORY: Lincoln Elliot, American has just been made military governor of a French colony in Central Africa. Long ago he had enlisted in the Foreign Legion following a bitter quarrel with his father over a ne'er-do-well half-brother, Raoul and this is the climax of his career. But as he sits alone that night, reflecting on the important job ahead of him, the chant of the African drums awakens old yearnings. He used to disguise himself as Terek el-Medjahiri, when routine palled, and mingle with the Arabs a one of them. He would do so again for the last time.

CHAPTER III

TEN minutes later, he found himself in the heart of the Arab quarter, passing through a spider web of little white-washed houses, oppressively secretive with their windowless walls that faced the streets, but blossoming in the inner patios with rosebush and jasmine and olive and tinkly fountain.

He walked on and on, at random, not caring where he went.

Deliberately, he bumped into a rough Touareg, cameleer, drunk with hashish, just to hear the man's highly flavored abuse:

"Wah! What manners be these, O especially illegitimate son of a noseless mother?"

To hear—no, no! he had not forgotten—in his own coarse reply:

"Into your beard—and begone, O wearer of a verminous robe!"

And, again, he felt it as, in front of a coffee-shop, an unveiled woman stopped him with the invitation of crimson lips and honeyed promises.

"Not tonight, O moon of the world," he replied. "I'm on my way to most important business . . ."

"Doubtless," she interrupted, "to kiss the wife of your best friend!"

"No one knoweth," rejoined Lincoln, "except Allah—and I . . ."

"And she? And—I beseech the Prophet it be not so!—her husband?"

He pressed a gold coin into her hand.

"Here—in gratitude for the beseeching, O heart of seven roses!"

She salaamed, touching the hem of his burnoose with her lips.

"Sahite, yah h'bibi—thanks, O my friend!" she said.

"Sahite sahite'i, yah jaghzal—thanks for the thanks, O my gazelle!" was his courteous reply.

Turning a corner, he entered the quarter of the Negroes and half-breeds.

It was late. Yet were the alleys still crowded; yet were there still shrill sounds as the peddlers called out their wares, cheaper now with day at its close:

"Malah ouh bnin—salty and savorous!"

"Alaou zatur—arma bazzoudi—here is mint, only five centimes!"

"Alaou aljaoui! Innfah ouh idaoui—here is incense! It cures and protects!"

"Hi chouffi—look, look! I am the father and mother of cut-rates!"

"Zoudj armat betkata—take both for three francs!"

He kept on walking at random. The moon had vanished behind a cloudbank. So dark it was that, presently, he was unable to see either house or man or beast. Yet life was everywhere; everywhere he was conscious of eyes staring at him through the darkness, used to that same darkness. Everywhere he heard whispering voices, bare feet pattering away on incredible and mysterious errands, the shiver of garments brushing past, a faint clashing of jewelry and crackle of steel, high, guttural laughter.

Then, after a while, the noise vanished. The black alleys vanished. The town itself vanished. The moon came from behind the clouds.

He saw, beneath its silver gleam, the desert stretching elfin arms. And he realized, suddenly, that his feet, as if obeying some hidden back-cell in his brain, were carrying him toward the old house, on the edge of the wilderness, where, years ago, he had taken part in the rites of the Bi Hassanyich dervishes.

Well—he reflected—they were no more. They had paid the price of their anti-European intrigues and had been exiled or jailed . . . which was just as good as, otherwise, with all the world, including Africa, in bloody travail, they might have caused a great deal of trouble.

Stilll, he wanted to take a look at the house, for old-times' sake.

A few minutes later, he found it, standing in loneliness and desolation. There was hardly a noise except the rustling of the wind in the stiff palm fronds and, high up, the melancholy, fluting cry of a tired desert bird dropping through the air like a spent bullet.

Even the tapping of the wooden signal drums seemed very far away, muffled — a memory of sound.

He looked at the house.

Part of its roof had caved in. Some of the walls were broken. It was deserted, lifeless. And once, not so very long ago, it had been filled with eager life, with men and—with women.

Chiefly one woman . . .

Hardly aware of what he was doing, obeying a curious impulse, he knocked on the door with the knuckles of his hand. He knocked in a peculiar way, like a telegraph operator, with dots and dashes, short pauses and long pauses. Seven times he repeated the knocking, laughing at himself for a sentimental, romantic jackass.

And then, all at once, his laughter broke off sharply. He gave a start of surprise, almost of fear, sucked in his breath, as, from the inside of the house, he heard his knocking echoed, with dots and dashes, short pauses and long pauses—seven times!

IMPROVING THE CIRCULATION

The correction of faulty circulation is usually a simple and easy task, providing a heart disorder is not the cause. Fortunately in most instances poor circulation is due to sedentary work with its accompaniment of little exercise and is not the result of a heart derangment.

In the treatment of sluggish circulation the most favorable results will come from the proper kind of physical culture exercises, together with walking. Either light or heavy exercise, as the case demands, will immediately increase the flow of fluids in the body and such muscular activity, if repeated each day, will have a permanent effect through the increased strengthening of the muscle fibers all over the body.

My advice for overcoming poor circulation is deep breathing and a greater amount of exercise. However, in taking up exercise when you are unaccustomed to it, you should be careful not to overdo at first. While light exercise is safe, a sudden spurt of violent exercise will probably do more harm than good. To get the best results I advise you to start taking your exercises today and to gradually go about making them harder on each succeeding day.

Exercise is a wonderful help and the only one worth considering in the development of a good circulation of blood and lymph, but it may be a dangerous remedy if not used correctly. In the beginning, start by taking light exercises and short walks. Every few days add harder exercises and also walk a short distance farther.

Perhaps you have not really exercised for years and if such is the case surely you can afford to take it slowly at first and to devote several weeks to the process of getting back into condition.

Bathing and rubbing are additional means of aiding the circulation. Cold hands and feet may be dipped first into warm water and then into cold, alternating in this way for about ten minutes. Finish with a brisk rubbing with a bath towel, rubbing until the skin fairly glows.

One or two shower baths a day should also be taken and these should be followed by a brisk rubdown. In rubbing the body, be sure to rub from the extremities in the direction of the heart.

Until the circulation has improved, it is a good plan for those with extremely cold feet to use a hot water bottle, heated brick or some other object which gives off heat, at the foot of the bed at night.

You should not expect these additional measures to improve the circulation sufficiently without the exercising, but they are helpful adjuncts.

When you begin to follow this plan I have outlined, you will begin to notice the blood bounding through the body, giving you a feeling of glowing warmth. Notice how much better you feel after you have used your muscles and the blood has been rapidly squeezed through the muscle fibers, washing them free of impurities and bringing them a fresh supply of food and oxygen.

If you wish to have an exercise chart to use as a guide, send for the article Exercise and Digestion. This will describ some excellent exercises for you which have been carefully chosen in order to give you those which are safe and effective.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Reorganization Of Communists Announced Here

The re-organization of the Communist Party in Canada and the drafting of post-war policies is the purpose of the western Canada tour of Tim Buck, leader of the party, who arrived in Edmonton by Canadian Pacific Air Lines Friday noon. He spoke Wednesday night in Regina, Sask.

"We have reached a decisive stage of the war, and it is now time for all parties to state their post-war views," Mr. Buck stated in an interview at the Macdonald hotel, where he is staying. "It is a normal function in our parliamentary system for certain numbers of citizens to hold certain political propositions and philosophies. We believe it is the duty of such groups to state clearly their position in an organized and national way."

He explained that because of the recent dissolution of the international Comintern, it had become necessary for the Canadian Communist party to reach a decision concerning post-war aims and to state its platform to the public.

"Since the Comintern has been dissolved, there is no longer an excuse for rendering judgment against the Canadian Communists on an international program," he said.

TASK AHEAD

His group now was faced with unifying the left wing and organizing their party in the most effective way. Mr. Buck's opinion was that the conclusion of the war would bring even more bold changes in Canada than the war itself has.

He recalled that his party fought for years for international alliances and interests that are now characterized by the United Nations, and he also explained that for 20 years the Communists stated policies that are now embodied in the Marsh report. Many of these proposals were made to the Rowell-Sirois commission, he said.

"We want to make it abundantly clear that we are organizing a new party, with a new program, to reflect conditions and interests of the farmers and workers—a party organized on a much broader basis," he said.

TO ADDRESS MEETING

Mr. Buck will address a mass meeting in the Moose temple Friday, at 8 p.m., and will speak briefly at a conference of Northern Alberta communists Saturday afternoon. More than 100 delegates are expected to attend this conference where the re-organization will be discussed. A committee of 100 persons will be appointed in Alberta to build the new party.

James MacPherson, leader of the Edmonton Communists, will be chairman of the Friday meeting.

Mr. Buck will leave here Saturday night by train for Drumheller. From there, he will speak at Calgary, Blairmore and Vancouver, B.C.

Man Is Stricken

Investigating a call from the telephone department concerning a man who had phoned from his 96 street address and said he was sick, city police found that Charlie Steiter, 10542 96 street, had collapsed in his workshop and was on the floor, unable to speak, and apparently in great pain.

Ordering a stretcher, the officers took the sick man to the Royal Alexandra hospital. Hospital authorities said Friday morning that the man's condition was favorable. The nature of his ailment was not available.

Annual Reserve Army training is in full swing at Sarcee Camp, near Calgary. Units are busy at their programs and widely-varied series of operations has been, and is being carried out. In the story appearing hereunder are told details of the above and others at the camp.

Edmonton Fusiliers Spend Day On Sarcee Camp Rifle Ranges: Training Proceeds Intensively

Members of the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, now in annual training at Sarcee Camp, near Calgary, spent Friday on the ranges polishing up their accuracy with rifles. Scores were recorded and they will be useful in comparing them with marks hung up last year, and to see whether the battalion shooting has improved.

The Fusiliers have reached and kept a high level of efficiency on the ranges, and those who saw them in action Friday felt certain that their work was at least equal to that of last year.

On Thursday the battalion went through a stiff course in gas drill. Lt.-Col. H. E. Pearson, M.C., officer commanding, who had been through many gas alerts in the Great War of 1914-1918 while serving with the 10th (Alberta) Battalion set the example and was the first through the gas chamber.

Next was Maj. Fred W. Kemp, second in command. Then came the regiment as a whole, including members of the bugle band, the youngest of whom is 11 years old, but most of whom are from 14 years up. For the boys it was the first experience in use of respirators.

Later in the day, the Fusiliers went out on tactical manoeuvres and came back with healthy coats of tan. Capt. R. G. Hagen received a severe sun-burning on his knees. He is a company commander and had been exceptionally active during the manoeuvres. In civilian life he is an accountant with the Alberta government.

During Thursday the Fusiliers were visited by Lt.-Col Louis Younger, D.S.O., M.C., officer commanding a training centre in M.D. No. 10 and former officer commanding No. 132 CA (B) TC at Grande Prairie. Former Edmonton resident, he was a member of the 19th Alberta Dragoons. During the Great War of 1914-1918 he fought with the 10th (Alberta) Battalion, winning the D.S.O. and the Military Cross with two bars. Later he served as brigade-major of the 9th Canadian Infantry Brigade of the 3rd Canadian Division.

Lt.-Col. Younger displayed a great interest in the type of training now being taken by the Reserve Army and this type was seen at a high peak in the performance of the Fusiliers.

OLD FRIEND

Another old friend to drop around on the Fusiliers was Maj. H. C. L. Gillman, of the 1st Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers. He was formerly with the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion of the regiment. Now he is brigade-major of a formation serving on the Pacific coast.

The Fusiliers are receiving widespread congratulations on their showing in the Stampede Parade in Calgary on Monday.

The regiment was headed by its famous bugle band under Drum-Major Dave Collister and general opinion expressed was that it was the snappiest and peppiest part of the whole parade. The Fusiliers bugle band has worked up a national reputation, and many Calgarians who remembered it from its nightly appearances at the Stampede last year greeted it as an old friend. The white anklets and belts on their uniforms the boys gave an impressive display. Marching behind such peppy music, the Fusiliers looked very smart.

The most ambitious training scheme of the Reserve Army training period at Sarcee will be held next Wednesday night, when units now in camp will take part in a mock battle in the Sarcee Reserve area.

Outline of the trainig scheme in which two armies, known as "Northland" and "Southland" will take part were issued Friday by headquarters of the 41st Reserve Brigade Group.

Details call for the "Southland" troops to withdraw after heavy fighting in the area of the Weasenhead bridge and to make a stand at Six Mile Coulee.

RIVAL COMMANDERS

Southland will be under the command of Lt. Col. H. E. Pearson, M.C., officer commanding the 2nd (R) Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, while the Northland troops will be commanded by Lt. Col. W. K. Jull, M.C., officer commanding the 14th (R) Army Tank Regt. (Calgary Regt. (Tank)).

Director and chief umpire of the composite exercise will be Col. E. R. Knight, V.D., officer commanding the 41st Reserve Brigade Group. Controller will be Major W. C. Roberts, Brigade Major.

Senior umpires will be Lt. Col. L. Cavanaugh for Northland and Lt.-Col. W. Hale, M.C., officer commanding the 2nd (R) Battalion Edmonton Regt., for Southland.

Through the co-operation of Col. Louis Scott, D.C.M., officer commanding A16 C.I.T.C., Currie Barracks, three demonstrations will be carried out by personnel of the centre at Sarcee during the next several days.

Friday night, at 10.45 o'clock, a night assault crossing of the Elbow river will be held immediately east of Weasel Head bridge.

BATTLE DRILL

Monday evening, at 7.45 o'clock, a platoon demonstration of battle drill will be held at the camp and on Tuesday evening at the same hour a 6-pounder anti-tank gun demonstration will be conducted.

At 8:30 p.m. Thursday members of the 13th (R) Field Company, R.C.E., gave a demonstration of Bangalore torpedoes, snake demolition of mine fields and demolitions.

Captain E. C. Manning, Alberta premier, who was recently promoted to that rank in the 2nd Bn. Edmonton Regiment (R), was a visitor at camp last night. Capt. Manning plans to spend Monday with the unit. Hon. G. Gerhart recently appointed minister of municipal affairs, who is a member of the 14th (Res.) Army Tank Regiment (Calgary Regiment Tank) is also at camp.

It is expected that a third member of the provincial cabinet, Hon. Lucien Maynard, attorney general, will be at camp next week. He is a member of the 41st Field Regiment, R.C.A. (Reserve).

GETS RIBBING

A sergeant major and a sergeant of the 41st (R) Field Regt., R.C.A., are taking a good-natured ribbing from fellow N.C.O.'s because of several "boners" that they pulled recently.

Reports have it that the sergeant major approached two markers. He told the first, "You stand where you are." Then, turning to the other he commanded, "You change places with him."

The same sergeant major, when his squad was marching past the officer commanding, gave the command "Eyes right" only to suddenly realize, when it was too late, that the O.C. was on the left of the troops.

The sergeant drilling with recruits was following a lad who turned to the left when the command "Right turn" was given. Quickly the sergeant commented, "You've only got one right hand."

DID IT AGAIN

The squad went through the manoeuvre again, and again the recruit made the wrong turn. This time, however, the sergeant was not paying strict attention and he followed the man who had made the mistake.

Suddenly the recruit realized his mistake but he recovered quickly, looked at the sergeant who had followed him and remarked, "Sergeant, you've only one right hand."

The machine gun school of the S.A.R. gave a demonstration on the range with the Browning machine gun which was witnessed by the members of the Royal Canadian Army Cadets now in camp.

The demonstration was under the command of Major H. J. Towerton, officer commanding the cadet camp, who explained the Browning to the cadets.

The cadets were marched to the butts and from under safe cover watched a battery of four guns firing over their heads. A number of cadets were also allowed to fire the guns.

Debt Refunding Is Dealt With At S.C. Meeting

tant when negotiations will be resumed, towards settlement of the problem.

RECALLS PROPOSALS

Recalling the last proposals put forth by the Alberta Bondholders' Committee, Mr. Low said they called for a plan involving three main points: 1—a basic rate of interest of four per cent; 2—recognition of past due unpaid interest; and 3—provisions for differentials in coupon rates on outstanding bonds to their respective maturities.

He quoted the reply of the government, saying an average rate of interest of 3¼ per cent would be acceptable; that the government could not see how it would be possible for the province to provide for the unpaid portion of the bond interest; and that adjustment of coupon rates on outstanding debenture issues would be necessary.

Analyzing these proposals into dollars and cents, Mr. Low explained that if the present debt were to be refunded at four per cent, the increase in interest charges over the present amount would be $1,792,000 per annum.

Secondly, the recognition of past due interest from June 1, 1936, would involve an addition to the debt, and provision over a term of years of a sum of approximately $22,000,000 as at March 31, 1943. However, that sum could be scaled down somewhat.

$6,587,000 OUTLAY

Thirdly, the provision for differential in coupon rates on outstanding bonds to their respective maturities, if reduced to a cash payment basis, would cost an outlay of $6,587,000.

Mr. Low said he was sure the individual bondholders were not interested in any punitive requirements in respect to refunding, but were anxious to see the fulfilment of a plan which would bring their bonds back to par value.

The meeting, under chairmanship of Jack Guild, was held under sponsorship of the King Edward Park and Bellvue Social Credit groups.

Mr. Low was introduced to the audience by N. B. James, Social Credit M.L.A. for Edmonton.

Sqdn. Leader Walker

Decorated Edmonton Air Ace Has Flown on Three Major Fronts

By SYDNEY GRUSON

LONDON, July 9—(CP)—Jimmy Walker said "write it mild or else. . . ." And since Jimmy is a young fighter pilot with 10½ enemy planes to do credit to his unerring eyesight, this story will be as mild as the facts permit.

Facts are enough to show that this 24-year-old squadron leader from Edmonton is one of Canada's air fighting aces and they are enough to show why he was awarded the second bar to his Distinguished Flying Cross, the first Canadian so honored. The announcement of the award was made today.

Walker has just returned from North Africa, his third field of operations, where his R.A.F. squadron of Canadians, Britons, Australians and New Zealanders set up an enviable record.

Before North Africa he had flown out of Britain and along with his pal, Dave Ramsey of Calgary, served for three months with the R.A.F. fighter wing in Russia, where he got one enemy aircraft to add to his bag of Axis machines.

Back from London, impatiently awaiting his next assignment, Walker in an interview said—and obviously meant it—that "the only thing I can see is that they're giving me something for what the squadron did."

And the squadron did plenty in the thick of the North African fighting.

Walker was placed in charge of his squadron on his arrival in North Africa at the start of the invasion. It was composed of newcomers who had not met the enemy. It took a while for the squadron to get organized and primed, but in April and May when the Allies had the Axis rocking, Walker's men were ready.

"We hadn't any luck at all at first. Suddenly everything went bingo and in two months we got 24 destroyed, about 12 probables and damaged 28," he said.

RECALLS EARLY DAYS

"It was nice," Walker said, recalling those early days of the campaign when he remembers the squadron facing 70 to 8 odds, "bouncing the Hun occasionally instead of him bouncing us all the time."

Altogether Walker got eight and a half of the squadron's total in Africa and was forced to bail out twice, both times within his own lines.

Walker is a mild-mannered, blond whose newly-grown mustache adds a few years to his appearance. He worked in the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Edmonton before the war and had never flown until he joined the R.C.A.F. early in 1940.

He has never changed his tactics of flying and shooting, the simple formula being "get there first before he gets you and just hope like heck you hit him before he gets you."

GOOD, HEALTHFUL LIFE

The life of a fighter pilot, he says, "is a damn, good healthy life," and a busy life too when action is as hot as it was in North Africa. His squadron usually went out three times a day when the weather was good and stayed aloft on an average of one or two hours.

Of his North African experiences he likes to recall the day "when we knew we had them licked."

"That time we really had our strength out with the sky filled with bombers and Spits. We plastered the Huns properly and after that we had to go look for him. He had been willing to mix with us up to that day."

These are some of the facts in the flying career of James Elmslee Walker, as the records list him. His citations, when he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in September, 1942, and first bar in March, 1943, give some idea of what kind of a fighter he is.

SKILLFUL PILOT

"A determined and skillful pilot (who) at all times has shown a keen desire to engage the enemy," his D.F.C. citation said of him.

"By his great skill, fine leadership and untiring efforts this officer has won high praise . . ." it was said on his first bar citation.

F. OBLIGATIONS OF EMPLOYERS:

It will be illegal for an employer to retain in his employ after July 15th, 1943, any men referred to in Paragraph C above, at any of the employments set forth in Paragraph B above, unless a special permit has been obtained from a National Selective Service Officer, permitting such action.

K. Special Request to Employers:

Each Employer with three or more men covered by this Order in his employ is requested to co-operate by getting in touch with the Employment and Selective Service Office, to arrange a time for the interviews of his employees.

L. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulations (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1943, and amending Orders in Council).
